VOL. 121, No. 168

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, JULY 19, 1954—20 PAGES

Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi! A reputable insurance company recently released the appalling information that every year 1,000 Canadians die by drowning. Drownings reach their peak in July, male victims outnumber females eight to one, and the highest death rate is recorded among boys between the ages of 15 and 19. Swimming accidents account for the majority of the deaths.

One of my great ambitions when I am through with channel swimming is to open a string of swimming schools. My ultimate hope would be to teach youngsters to swim early enough to reduce the number of annual water tragedies.

Swimming is one of the greatest of all recreational activities, from a standpoint of health, economy and usefulness. Every muscle in the body and the major organs are exercised, it costs next to nothing to spend a day at the beach and you never know when the ability to swim and a slight knowledge of life-saving can save a life.

I feel, then, that it is imperative youngsters should not only know how to swim, but also they should be taught several vital rules for swimming.

For the sake of safety, the average swimmer should never swim alone. Even the strongest swimmer can develop a sudden cramp or tire unexpectedly. If there are other swimmers or boats nearby, a disaster can be averted.

Never swim too soon after a meal. Stomach cramps in the water are one of the greatest hazards of swimming.

Pay attention to warning signs and roped-off areas where you are swimming. They are put there for your own good.

Take care when swimming underwater or diving deep. Holding the breath too long can overtax the heart.

Don't over-estimate your endurance or under-estimate distances. That raft may look inviting for some sunning, but the distance may be too great for you. It would be foolish to take an unnecessary risk.

Two of Three Fishboats Reported Safe

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two commercial deep-sea vessels were reported safe today after being in distress or missing during the week-end, but the search was continuing for a third.

Still missing is the 35-foot United States troller A-1, due in at Alaska on July 3.

It was believed the craft carried only one man, owner Carl Johnson of Friday Harbor, Wash.

The 52-foot Nightingale, also American, was safely beached 80 miles south of Prince Rupert, a large hole torn in her side. RCAF rescue teams reported the damaged craft and her crew were safe.

The heavy boat had radioed for aid after grinding part-way onto the beach.

RCAF reported that the search for the 52-foot Zepora, based in Vancouver, had been called off. The boat was due back in port at the July 12 close of the halibut season, but was not heard from. Radio check located the vessel in northern waters, and she reported she would be in Wednesday.

First Break Today In Bread Strike

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Twenty-eight employees of Mrs. Wellman's cake shop returned to work today on the lifting of the lockout in the first major break in a strike-lockout which has tied up Vancouver's major bakeries for 12 days.

City Blaze Fought Three Hours

Almost all city firemen and equipment were busy three hours today in quelling flames which ate out top floor of Central Cartage Company warehouse at 535 Yates. Top photo shows firemen digging through rubble after roof crashed through to fourth floor. None was injured but unofficial estimates place damage near $150,000. Lower picture shows ladders used in scaling front of building when flames cut off stairway. Blaze, reported at 6.43 a.m., is second incident for cartage company recently. Vandals damaged nine trucks Friday. Police are investigating possibility of arson. (Times Photos by Irving Strickland.)

4 Violent Deaths Mar B.C. Week-End

(From CP, BUP Dispatches)
VANCOUVER — James E. Reeve, radio station engineer, died in hospital here today from injuries suffered Sunday when he was attempting to string an aerial to a power pole.

Police said a 4,000-volt shock knocked Reeve from the metal ladder he had placed against the pole at the rear of his home. He suffered electrical burns, cuts and bruises.

All in all British Columbia had four violent deaths during the week-end.

Don Archibald, 42, died in Vancouver hospital Sunday less than three hours after he toppled off a 15-foot scaffolding he had erected to give his house a spring coat of paint. Archibald died of severe head and internal injuries. He landed on a cement walk after falling from the scaffold.

Vancouver's 44th gas fatality of the year took the life of O. H. Pickersgill, 55, of Barkley Street, Saturday. He was found overcome by deadly domestic gas fumes in his West-End apartment.
At Merritt Sunday, Bernice Moses, six-year-old daughter of Antoine Moses of the Shuluis Indian Reserve, drowned in the Nicola River before the eyes of her sister.

Iranian Leader Reports Agreement In Oil Dispute

LONDON (UP)—Officials of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company today withheld comment on reports that an agreement has been reached for the renewal of production and the marketing of oil from Iran's long-idle fields.
Dr. Ali Amini, Iranian finance minister, announced in Tehran that general agreement had been reached with representatives of the association of eight international oil companies on prices, production rates and other major factors.
A company spokesman here said that any official announcement would have to come from both sides in the negotiations.

Phil Harris, Alice Faye To Visit Here

Gravel-voiced Phil ("That's What I Like About the South") Harris and his wife Alice ("Alexander's Ragtime Band") Faye are to spend another holiday in the garden city. They and their entourage will be guests at the Empress Hotel for two days starting tomorrow.

Also on hand will be the butt of Harris' frequent humor, an orchestra member named "Remmie." As far as is known the stars of TV, movies and radio will be here for a holiday only, part of the long lay-off period show biz has each summer. The couple last holidayed here Aug., 1943.

Jack Kirk Jumps From Flaming House

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Jack Kirk, well-known Vancouver Island and Okanagan League hockey player, escaped from his flaming home today by smashing a bedroom window and leaping 10 feet to the ground.

B.C. REVOLT MAY FORCE NATIONAL TORY MEETING

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent
Ottawa—The "non-confidence" vote in the leadership of George Drew which climaxed the quarterly meeting of the executive of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association may precipitate a national convention within a year, party sources said here Monday.
The headquarters of the Progressive Conservative party in Ottawa over the week-end arranged to cable details of the blow-up at the West Coast executive meeting to Mr. Drew who is in Europe on vacation. Mr. Drew had asked to be kept posted on the outcome of the B.C. meetings.
The last national Progressive Conservative meeting was held in 1948.

Tory Rebels Plot New Anti-Drew Act

Call for National Leadership Change Due at B.C. Convention in September

By TOM GOULD
B.C.'s rebel Conservatives, fresh from a decisive victory in Vernon Saturday, today started laying plans for the next step in their battle to force a national leadership convention, and the ouster of George Drew.

Saturday's non-confidence motion in the national party leader climaxed five years of bickering between the federal and provincial organizations.

But it is only the beginning. If the anti-Drew factions attain their goal.

Today, the B.C. Conservative Association is openly split into two camps. Three federal Tory MPs have withdrawn from the association, and with them their supporters.

Howard Green, Davie Fulton and Major General G. R. Pearkes, VC, have affirmed their loyalty to Drew in a wire to national party headquarters.

They said the Vernon revolt is "an unfortunate incident... stemming entirely from the personal vexation of the provincial leader, Deane Finlayson, and a small group of his advisers, over the fact that the national leader has of necessity refused to allow the responsibility imposed on him for national organization to be usurped by the provincial leader."

The federal members said they would now work to build up the federal organization in the province, and would cut themselves loose from the provincial association.

The rebels, confident their drama-packed, non-confidence motion will prove the spark to touch off smoldering fires of dissatisfaction against Drew throughout the country, will carry their action next to a provincial convention, in September or October.

Two suggested
Their prime objective is the forcing of a national convention and the overthrow of Drew, who was named party leader in 1948.

Already the names of John Diefenbaker and Donald Fleming are being tossed about as future leaders, especially that of the youthful Diefenbaker.

Said provincial party leader Deane Finlayson, for whom the non-confidence motion was a personal victory: "I predict John Diefenbaker will replace George Drew within two years."

Drew is in southern Europe on vacation. Some observers feel he may call a leadership convention immediately on his return.

The strategy would be to place him on the offensive; to force the issue before rebels

George Hees 'Can't See' Drew Ousted

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—George Hees, president of the national Progressive Conservative Association, said Sunday the vote of non-confidence in party leader George Drew by the British Columbia Association "most certainly does not represent the opinion held by the members of the Conservative party in the other nine provinces..."

"And I feel confident that this does not represent the opinion held by the great majority of Conservatives in British Columbia."

Mr. Hees said at a press conference he "can't see" Mr. Drew being replaced as the opposition leader.

At Long Last?

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Relatives of Groucho Marx said today the 59-year-old comedian married Miss Eden Hartford, a 24-year-old ex-model, because she laughed at his jokes.

It was the third marriage for Marx.

PEARSON STUDIES TRUCE MOVES

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada today was considering whether to serve on an international armistice commission in Indo-China.

External Affairs Minister Pearson went into a huddle with his top officials after word reached here that a telegram was on its way from Geneva asking Canadian participation on an armistice commission.

A department official said the telegram had not yet been received here but that the matter was taken under consideration immediately.

Flames Destroy Foods, Furniture

Five fire trucks and over 85 firemen battled to save a four-story Central Cartage Company storage building in the 500 block Yates Street early today.

Damages may reach $150,000. Flames destroyed stored furniture of about 40 families and three floors of warehouse groceries were flooded with tons of water.

The blaze, which started on the top floor, was held from spreading.

It was the second blow experienced by the trucking firm in three days. Friday, police reported nine company trucks were damaged by sledge-hammer-swing vandals who shattered headlights and windshields and ripped wiring from motors.

Police are investigating the possibility of arson although so far fire officials have found no evidence that the blaze was set deliberately.

The roof of the ancient brick building crashed through to the fourth floor while firemen fought their way up swaying ladders with high-pressure hoses. Spray dampened hundreds of spectators who stopped to watch the fire while going to work.

The alarm was turned in at 6.43 a.m. by H. R. Barnett, owner of the Poodle Dog Cafe.

"I saw the smoke and flame as I was opening the cafe door," he said. He rushed to phone firemen and the cartage company owner, James Stinson. Mr. Barnett is a former owner of Central Cartage. He sold out to Mr. Stinson 18 months ago.

Owner Dazed by Disaster

Dazed by the disaster, Mr. Stinson arrived at the scene in time to open street doors for the fire fighters. Others had already smashed through rear doors and windows. The owner could give no reason for the truck smashing incident and would not say whether he thought the fire could be related to the earlier incident.

A torrent of water cascaded through the building as firemen leveled hoses from the roofs of adjoining buildings and from an aerial ladder truck.

Deputy Chief James Bayless who led the battle said 10 lines of hose were laid from five hydrants. Three pumps, a service truck and a ladder truck were called out from stations at James Bay and Burnside as well as the central department.

All off-duty firemen were summoned. Officials praised the firemen, whose quick response was credited with saving the lower three floors from the flames.

Heavy concentration of smoke within the building hampered firemen. It was so dense it was pouring through chinks in the mortar of the west wall of the brick building.

Tenants in the upper story of neighboring E. A. Morris

A mechanical failure in the starter of an aerial fire-truck in the road before the burning warehouse did not affect the fight to save the building. The ladder, which can be hand-cranked to position, was already hoisted when the starter failed. It had to be lowered by hand and spectators joined firemen in trying to start the engine later by pushing.

A company official said the cartage company was heavily insured against fire loss.

Firemen were still probing the debris at press time and the deputy chief said men would remain on the job all day.

Peace Signing Seen By Tuesday Night

French Sources Say France Has Agreed To Give Up Hanoi and, Later, Haiphong

GENEVA (UP)—High French sources said today France has agreed to surrender to the Reds all northern Viet Nam above the 17th Parallel—including Hanoi and eventually the port of Haiphong—in a final bid to win an Indo-China peace by Tuesday's French-imposed deadline.

By EDDY GILMORE
GENEVA (AP)—A high Western source said tonight a cease-fire agreement on the Indo-China war is almost certain to be reached before French Premier Pierre Mendes-France's deadline of Tuesday midnight.

This source, who asked not to be identified by name but who is well informed on the course of the long, difficult negotiations for peace, said the momentum of Mendes-France's drive for peace was carrying the movement along.

Mendes-France was confident himself as he met reporters briefly today when his deadline for achieving peace was little more than 24 hours away.

The French premier, who said he would resign if he could not bring peace to Indo-China by Tuesday midnight, spoke briefly to reporters as he came out of a two-hour and 17-minute meeting with U.S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith.

"How are things going?" he was asked.

"All right," the premier replied in English.

The Hotel Metropole continued to render public service.

"We have food enough for three weeks, but we won't need it," says director Louis Blouet.

"When the military tells me to leave, I'll walk out the door and that's that. I can't take this hotel with me. I'll return to my family in Paris. If I can get there."

Meantime, in Geneva, Premier Mendes-France has 30 hours left to bring peace to this land or resign his office as premier of France.

STUNNED, APATHETIC, AT ZERO HOUR

Hanoi's 340,000 Have Given Up All Hope

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW

TOKYO (UP)—The 340,000 residents of Hanoi have given up all hope. They take it for granted that their city is either in process of being battered away to the Reds at Geneva, or if the Geneva peace effort fails, they feel Hanoi will become the target city for the next great battle of the Orient and perhaps "zooed in" by the same Red artillery that reduced Dien Bien Phu to rubble.

The remaining French in Hanoi, probably less than 10,000, seem stunned by the twin catastrophes of the last 90 days.

They seem actually dazed by the historic military error of Gen. Henri-Eugene Navarre at Dien Bien Phu, and the political decision in France to give up the long war even at the cost of all Tonkin.

Although the sky above Hanoi flashes nightly from the defense artillery and sleep is made difficult by the thunder of the big guns, there is none of the "on-with-the-fight" attitude which sparks Saigon 500 miles to the south. The French still in Hanoi believe Hanoi is lost yet they do not leave. Many of them go down to Pont Doumer to assure themselves that the long spidery bridge to the airport and the sea is still open, then return to their places of business.

Although most of the French families have gone, well dressed French women still may be seen window-shopping the jewelry and gown shops, where the best merchandise in the Orient is displayed in tastefully dressed windows. They find no bargains and no sales. The remaining storekeepers are making no effort to sell their merchandise quickly—in contrast to a typical offer made this reporter to drive a new Buick out of the salesroom in Shanghai for $300 when Shanghai like Hanoi, concluded that its fate was sealed.

The French newspaper, L'Entente, continues to appear daily.

"We cannot move our plant, so we might as well have the use of it up to the last hour," the director says.

The Hotel Metropole continued to render public service.

"We have food enough for three weeks, but we won't need it," says director Louis Blouet.

"When the military tells me to leave, I'll walk out the door and that's that. I can't take this hotel with me. I'll return to my family in Paris. If I can get there."

Meantime, in Geneva, Premier Mendes-France has 30 hours left to bring peace to this land or resign his office as premier of France.

JUST for the RECORD

FUNDAMENTALS: In Cooksville, Ont., Police Chief Garnet McGill decided today to include basic midwifery in his men's training course.

Four officers escorting a car to hospital lost their race with the stork and found that none of them knew what to do next. An ambulance crew raced to the scene and helped them out. "This is the sixth emergency in two years," the police chief said. "It's about time we gave the boys a few fundamentals."

SIGN OF THE TIMES: The designation "red force"—Traditionally used for the "enemy" in Western manoeuvres has been banned from this year's NATO Atlantic war exercises "because of the obvious implications," a London spokesman said today. The "enemy" this year are "orange."

RECOVERING: In Sacramento to Will Walton was recovering today from the effects of a hearty meal.

Police said Walton entered a cafeteria, ordered a plate of beans and sat down next to a man eating short ribs. The short-ribs man got up to get a glass of water and returned to find Walton munching his ribs.

He jabbed Walton in the stomach with a fork.

DOUBLE EXPOSURE: In Nahariy, Israel, a vacationist said today he got his black eye after shooting some pictures of a pretty girl in a two-piece swim suit.

The young lady became enraged when she discovered he had no film in the camera.

LOVE: In New York Joyce Bannon told a judge yesterday she still loves her boy friend, even after he broke her arm, smashed her foot, stole $2,500 worth of articles from her apartment, threatened to put a bomb in her car and said he would put marijuana cigarettes in her purse.

HOME SWEET HOME: In Enid, Okla., Bill McMahon didn't mind so much when a group of honey bees moved in with him but he objected when an army of ants decided to take up residence, too. He spread DDT and motor oil along the wall where the bees had established their hive to discourage the ants. He discouraged the bees instead. They departed, and the ants remained.

'Best Ever' RVCYC Races Staged by Club's Juniors

Royal Victoria Yacht Club junior members showed their elders how to run a regatta Saturday and Sunday, as a varied schedule of races and novelty events went off like clockwork. Veteran yachtsmen termed it one of the best run regattas ever held here.

All arrangements were in the hands of juniors, headed by Lionel Edwards, chairman of the race committee. Light breezes maintained Saturday, and there was a 15-minute delay in starting times Sunday due to a dead calm, but the wind improved during the morning.

Overall winners:
A Class—Buccaneer III, H. A. Wallace.
C Class—May D., Ned Ashe; Black Hawk (RCNSA), Lieut. Cmdr. Jack Marshall.

Coffin Jury Still Lacks One Member

PERCE, Que. (BUR)—The entire list of talen was used up today and the court was still short one juror for the trial of prospector Wilber Coffin, charged following the bush slaying of three American bear hunters.

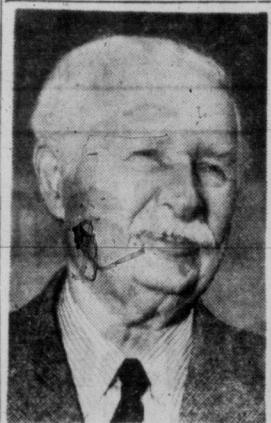

Two English-speaking jurors were needed to complete the 12-man panel when the court opened this morning and the Crown defense lawyers quickly went through the remaining prospects and rejected them all. Clarence Deary of Bougainville, Que., was finally selected as the 11th member of the panel from the list of those previously set aside by the Crown.

The necessary six French-speaking Canadians were approved late last week along with four of the English members of the panel. Court officials said the first Crown witness would be called as soon as the final juror was chosen to hear the case against the 40-year-old Coffin.

SIR ERNEST PETTER
Ex-Victorian,
Sir E. Petter
Dies at 81

Sir Ernest Willoughby Petter, 81, who with his twin brother, designed and built the first internal combustion automobile engine in Britain, died Sunday at New Milton, England.

The two brothers built their first internal combustion engine car during 1895 and 1896. But they had to wait two years before an act of parliament, permitting motor vehicles to be used on British roads, was passed.

During the First World War the two brothers made airplane engines, and their factory at Westland produced both the Petter oil engines and "Westland" aircraft.

Ernest was knighted in 1925. When he and his brother retired in 1935, Ernest and his wife went to Canada and lived in Victoria until their return to England, a year ago. P. W. Petter, who visited here in 1951, lives at Christchurch, England.

One of Ernest Petter's sons, William, 46, designed the Canberra jet bomber, and more recently the Gnat, a light swept-wing jet fighter.

West Hails Iran's Stand Against Reds

TEHRAN, Iran (UP)—Western diplomats today welcomed Iran's blunt rejection of a Soviet protest and its defiant assertion of the right to link itself with any regional defense pact under the United Nations charter.

Iran's reply to a Russian protest that it has joined an anti-Soviet bloc was handed Sunday to Soviet Ambassador Anatoli Lavrenti by Foreign Minister Abdullah Entezam.

Lavrenti strode angrily from his 30-minute meeting with Entezam clutching the Iranian reply to the Soviet note of July 8, according to reliable sources. He brusquely brushed aside all queries from newsmen as he stalked to his waiting car.

OAK BAY CITIZENS HELP

Fire Near Golf Club Burns for 18 Hours

Two private citizens joined firemen when blazing bush threatened their property near Oak Bay Golf Club during the week-end.

Oak Bay firemen were assisted by Herbert Anson, and Gen. H. F. Hertzberg, in putting out a bush fire at the rear of their property in the 300 and 400 blocks of Newport, Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning.

Off-shift men and an extra pumper were called out by Chief Ed Claydards to fight the 18-hour fire, in which nearly six acres of bush extending to Beach Drive were burned over.

Firemen left the scene at 10 a.m. Sunday after having been on the job since 4 p.m. Saturday.

In Saanich, a fire at Prospect Lake burned nearly seven hours Saturday, before firemen left the scene. About two acres of bush were burned between 12:40 p.m. and 7:31.

A second fire in Saanich burned two hours, off Cedar Glen Road, and the third, a grass fire at Cloverdale and Oak, was extinguished near 5 p.m. after burning a short time.

No damage resulted at 3893 Douglas, where firemen were called at 4:30 p.m. to extinguish a chimney fire.

60-Day Ban, $83 in Fines For Hit-Run

Alfred James Hunt, of Victoria, was fined a total $83 in Colwood RCMP court Saturday on charges of failing to remain at the scene of an accident and dangerous driving.

Police said he sideswiped a car on Parson's bridge Thursday, and drove off. He was fined $50 and $3 costs on this charge, and an additional $25 and $5 costs for dangerous driving.

Hunt's license was suspended for two months.

SPEEDERS FINED

Four speeders were convicted in the same court, and fined a total $49. Douglas C. Mc. Gowan, Duncan, and Albert F. Zarfe, Langford, each was fined $15 and $3 costs, and Zarfe's license was suspended for two months.

Ramsay G. Cooper, Victoria, paid $10 and $3 costs for speeding. Kenneth F. Lapham, Victoria, was convicted but no fine was imposed. His driver's license was endorsed.

Careless driving cost Peter Richard Willis, Victoria, $25 and $5.50 costs.

Honor System Car Parking Introduced

Honor system car parking has been introduced in Victoria, the first British Columbia centre to make use of the plan.

Civic Parking Centre, Blanshard Street, operated by Jack Phillion and Jack Price, has installed the first 10 of a proposed 100 meters which allow citizens to leave cars on the lot all day for 20 cents.

No attendant is employed at most commercial parking lots. Each motorist is trusted to place his money in a box similar to a parking meter, and minimum rate for short periods is 10 cents.

Car-owners also park cars themselves, and are free to drive in or out without checking-in at a wicket.

Where the system has been used in other parts of the continent, operators report that 95 per cent of honor system users are honest.

Britain Protests Spanish Arms to Egypt

Paper Reports Spain's Arms Makers to Ship $3,500,000 Worth of Guns, Munitions

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says today Spanish arms makers are reported to have made a deal to sell the Egyptian government an estimated $3,500,000 worth of guns and ammunition.

A Times dispatch from Bilbao, Spain, says a plant at Marquina is working double shifts to fill an order for several hundred mortars and more than 200,000 shells. It says a state arsenal at Oviedo was reported turning out 900 machine guns for the Egyptians.

Times correspondent Camille M. Clamfarra wrote that he saw members of an Egyptian military mission at Marquina checking the arms output.

The dispatch said Britain has expressed concern to the Spanish foreign office over the sale of arms which she fears will be used by Egyptian nationals to kill British soldiers in the disputed Suez Canal area.

The dispatch said the United States was also understood to have made a general representation to Spain that sale of arms to other than NATO nations might conflict with the spirit of the American-Spanish aid agreement signed last September.

CAR PAYMENTS ARE NO PROBLEM NOW!

TRANS CANADA CREDIT

"We're certainly grateful to the friend who suggested that we re-finance our car at Trans Canada Credit. They're really helpful there. A courteous adviser quickly arranged a new loan to pay off the old one—and smaller payments were stretched over a 24-month period. All he asked for was proof of ownership—no endorsers were required, and we found the rates quite reasonable."

"I'd certainly recommend Trans Canada Credit to anyone who wants to re-finance his car at lower payments, over a longer period of time."

New Trail-Tadanac Hospital Dedicated

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—The new $2,000,000 150-bed Trail-Tadanac Hospital was dedicated here Saturday before an audience of 1,500.

Health Minister E. C. Martin said the structure was one of the finest in B.C.

Washington Expresses Concern Over Communist Power in Chile

WASHINGTON (AP)—Concern was expressed in responsible quarters Sunday over reports that Communists are gaining power in Chile.

The situation is regarded here as particularly dangerous because Chile, which stretches narrowly between the Andes Mountains and the Pacific for about 2,700 miles along western South America, is in a period of acute economic difficulty.

Unlike Guatemala's leftist president Jacobo Arbenz, who was ousted from power recently by his Communist friends, Chile's President Carlos Ibanez is an avowed anti-Communist.

However, his administration has no control in the Chilean Congress, and his cabinets, drawn from numerous political parties, sometimes have been found fighting among themselves.

Dr. Francis O. Wilcox, staff director of the U.S. Senate foreign relations committee, told a reporter that "recent events in Chile are a matter of very serious concern."

It was in Chile that some of the most violent anti-United States demonstrations occurred when left-wing elements in Latin-America were denouncing Washington and blaming it for the overthrow of the Arbenz government in Guatemala.

Earlier, the Chilean Chamber of Deputies had voted 34-to-15 to express its sympathy with the pro-Communist Arbenz government.

Observers here said, however, that the mathematics of that vote was much more important than the language of the resolution.

There were 49 deputies who voted for or against the resolution, but 147 others, who abstained or were absent.

To the North American mind, this could mean only that Communism had gained such a foothold in Chile that the anti-Communists were reluctant to stand up and be counted.

Complete answers to all three questionnaires are not expected to be in the hands of the committee for some months yet. A good deal of the information and opinions, however, should be available for study by the 10 senators and 17 MPs when they resume sittings at Parliament's reopening.

OTTAWA (BUP)—The attorneys-general of all provinces have been asked for their views on mercy killings and suicide.

They've also been asked whether young persons and women should be hanged for capital crimes.

The questions are two of 13 posed by the Senate-Commons committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries.

The 13-part questionnaire, containing 53 sub-queries, went to each provincial attorney-general and dealt solely with capital punishment.

Separate questionnaires on corporal punishment and lotteries were sent to the attorneys-general. Thirty questions—two of them triple-pronged—comprised the former and the latter embraced three main questions broken down into 29 parts.

Strains in the UN

SINCE IT WAS FOUNDED IN the spring of 1945 the United Nations has endured many shocks. Its largest crisis lies immediately ahead. When the communist and neutralist nations attempt to seat China in the General Assembly a few weeks hence a wide and deep schism will appear between West and East.

Already the lines of this division have been clearly indicated by two Commonwealth statesmen. Mr. Nehru says that most of the world's troubles in Asia are due to the single fact that Communist China has been wrongly barred from the United Nations. Sir Winston Churchill says this is not the time to admit China.

The vote on this issue probably will be close in the Assembly. China is sponsored by Russia, Russia's satellites, India and some other Asiatic nations. The United States, and its friends, will oppose China. No one can foresee the result of this contest but however the decision goes it will divide not only the United Nations, not only the West and the East but the Commonwealth also.

But the result chiefly to be feared—a split in the English-speaking world—has been avoided by Britain's decision to back the United States and vote against China. Sir Winston's announcement on that score evidently is an outcome of his recent conference with President Eisenhower. Doubtless the other English-speaking nations of the Commonwealth will support Britain's stand. They have no alternative when agreement with the United States is the first priority of their foreign policies.

This situation is made to order for the Communists. If they win in the Assembly they will claim a great diplomatic victory. If they lose they will create a split in the free world, which would be even more satisfactory to them. They will accuse the United States and its friends of suppressing the legitimate aspirations of Asia. They will tell India in particular that it need expect no real co-operation from the West.

The argument in the Assembly can be easily foreseen. The sponsors of China will argue that the People's Government is undoubtedly in control of the most populous country in the world; that this fact must be accepted, whether the government's policies are approved or not; that the United Nations cannot take, and has not taken any account of ideological differences; and that it should include all the world's peoples.

Against these points of logic the United States and its friends reply that the Chinese Government has not earned its way into the United Nations. In the Korean war it defied all the principles of the Charter. It was tried before the General Assembly and convicted as an aggressor. And that crime has not been purged since China has refused repeatedly to make a tolerable peace in Korea.

Britain supports the American position on grounds of principle and practical politics. It has given diplomatic recognition to the Chinese Government, it seeks friendship with the Chinese people but it agrees that, for the present, China is not fit for United Nations membership. The British decision is based mainly, however, on the fact that a quarrel with the United States on an issue so keenly felt by all Americans is unthinkable.

In other words, the problem of China is a problem of timing, and the time for admission is not yet. It will certainly come later on. Four hundred million people cannot be permanently excluded from the councils of mankind. Once the Chinese Government has proved its peaceful intentions it must be admitted and by then, it is to be hoped, the United States will agree.

The West, however, may not be able to control this timetable. The Assembly may vote to seat China. In that event the United States' confidence in the United Nations undoubtedly will be undermined but, despite men like Senator Knowland, the United States is not likely to withdraw, for its withdrawal would merely weaken the free world's representation and strengthen the Communists. Probably it would smash the United Nations altogether, just as the League of Nations was doomed from the start by the United States' absence. A disaster of that sort is not to be anticipated but certainly the United Nations will go through wrenching strains before the year's end.

Men and Machines

MR. PERCY BENGOUGH, A DISTINGUISHED and able Canadian labor leader, has lately advanced a surprising economic doctrine. He protests that the Canadian Government, by using modern machinery to build the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Canso Causeway in Nova Scotia will deprive thousands of men of the chance of employment.

If, as Mr. Bengough thinks, this work were done with more primitive methods it would require more labor. And as The Financial Post wryly observes, still more labor would be required if the Seaway were dug with shovels, or perhaps spoons. By this same theory, The Post adds, it would be good business, it would employ perhaps millions of Canadians, if we dug a ditch by hand all the way across the continent and then filled it up again.

The value and the purpose of any public work do not lie in the employment immediately created, but in the resulting increase in total production. By cheapening transportation the Seaway and the Causeway are designed to make our national economy more efficient and hence more productive. In the long run they will supply us with more goods than we presently enjoy.

But this does not mean, of course, that they will reduce employment and the income of the workers. If such a theory were sound the world would be poorer today than it was when the steam engine appeared. Primitive men, working without machinery, were fully employed at all times, merely to keep alive. Their wealth has increased and their present living standard provided by machines more powerful and productive than their hands.

New machines certainly cause changes in industry and often changes in men's jobs, but their result, perhaps after some temporary dislocation, is more wealth, more jobs and more leisure.

For these reasons, and also because the taxpayers, almost all of them workers, must pay the shot—the Government should build all its public works as cheaply as possible, with the best equipment. Mr. Bengough need not worry about machinery. It is the worker's best friend.

Divorce Law—Unsavoury Story

BLAIR FRASER, OTTAWA EDITOR for Maclean's, headed his article in a recent issue of that magazine "The Divorce Committee at Bay."

Beneath that heading Mr. Fraser reported an incident in which the Senate's Divorce Committee secured Senate approval for a bill based on what later was declared false evidence. The case was made crueler by the fact that it had been rigged against a crippled woman whose husband had sought to sever marital ties unjustifiably on the one and only ground the law permits—adultery.

In the same issue of the magazine Dorothy Sangster produced an article on "The In-Betweens"—married people separated from their spouses and condemned to unnatural lives because they cannot or will not seek divorce on the only ground available to them.

The two features focus Canada's attention once again on the obsolete and often inhuman restrictions placed upon Canadians by the present divorce laws.

They illustrate in one case how narrowly the Government avoided commission of an unpardonable injustice to a Canadian woman—and in the process placed the Senate committee in a thoroughly unfavorable light. In the other, they draw attention to the tragedy in human lives impaired by the rigidity of the law.

Both show a crying need for reform in the legal procedure. That, of course, is an old story. So far it has not carried sufficient conviction to persuade Parliament to positive action. Variation of divorce laws, the politician explains, is too dangerous politically.

Conceivably that is an opinion gradually dying out. More articles like those in Maclean's magazine, and continued reference in the press of Canada to the need for reform should produce results. Too many people are now suffering a legal straitjacket which should have been removed years ago.

Grounds for divorce in Canada should never be frivolous. They should, however, bear some relationship to the times and recognize and provide a cure for such inhumanities as the indissoluble partnership between an individual and an insane spouse.

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

PREPARE yourselves for a treat, my little gluttons. Staring me in my hungry face, I have a recipe clipped from a mainland paper. It is highly commended by one Uncle Frank Kohler, who calls himself Chief Skilleteer of the Skillet Club. Anyone who calls himself Uncle, and a Chief Skilleteer at that, is simply looking for trouble, so far as I am concerned. I would not think much of a chief who called himself an Uncle Skilleteer, either. It sounds more to me like something from Junior Radio Jollity.

Brock

However, I am grateful to Uncle Frank, CS, for this particular recipe. He himself says it is unbelievably good. I prefer to think it is simply unbelievable, period. Hearken unto me: for 2 pounds of stewed meat and 4 cups of cooked rice, you use the following articles: 2 tablespoons of coriander seed, 1 teaspoon each of paprika, turmeric, powdered ginger, curry powder, 1 tablespoon of chili powder, 1 teaspoon each of garlic powder, cumin seed, peppercorns, saffron, a teaspoon of ground cardamom seeds, and a pinch of cloves.

I DON'T know if the author has ever tried saffron. All you ever need is the tiniest of pinches. I suppose he means 1/2 teaspoon of fake Mexican saffron, which isn't saffron at all. But skip that. What amazes me is that the recipe doesn't call for half a pint of tabasco sauce, 3 oz. turpentine, 2 oz. paint remover, and a bottle of Pankinell.

CRIMINAL TYPES

SOMETIMES when I am at a loss for the sort of book you can dip into, I read the dictionary or the encyclopedia. But occasionally, for short dips, I read the Criminal Code of Canada. . . . Snow's annotated edition. It is fascinating to see how many crimes you are committing daily without knowing it, and how much worse your neighbors are than they realize or than you always suspected.

Last night I learnt to my sorrow that my milkman is probably committing an indictable offense daily. He is trafficking in milk bottles bearing the names and trade marks of other dairies (sec. 490, b). True, if he gets their written permission he can traffic in their bottles and remain an honest milkman. But has he such written permission? Does he carry the letters round with him and show them to you on demand? I doubt it. I am practically certain that he hasn't got written permission from the Skyolue Milk Co. of Regina (maybe I have the name a little wrong), but he left me a bottle of theirs this morning. And since it is a citizen's duty to arrest as many people as he can . . . oh dear, oh dear.

WHEN WE WERE VERY SILLY

FOR the benefit of a crowd of children, I was flicking through Beachcomber's rhymed protests against A. A. Milne, in the two groups named "When We Were Very Silly" and "Now We Are Sick." The children lapped it up. Especially the one about "Hush, hush, no body cares, Christopher Robin has fallen downstairs." But I ran across one they couldn't understand at all. It was about the British House of Commons. It was written about 1930, but I forget who was Premier then . . . Ramsay MacDonald, I suppose. . . . the Labor Government resigned in August and the National Government was formed then, and it won the election in October, but MacDonald was Premier of both governments, no?

ANYHOW, here's how the song goes:

There are Communists and Socialists and Conservatives and things. There are cranks, and dupes, and forgers and their slimy underlings. There's a roaring man with a ruddy face, and another as quiet as a mouse. But I gave a bun to the Premier when I went down to the House.

There's a man who brays "Protection" and a lady who curses drink. And at least three hundred and sixty-five who never know how to think. There's one who cries the Millennium, and one with a permanent grouse. But I gave a bun to the Premier when I went down to the House.

There's a wretched lonely Liberal with a face as long as a flute. And a man who spends his leisure in making a corner in jute. There's every shade of incompetence, all humped under the sun. But whenever I go down to the House the Premier takes the bun.

Unkind, perhaps. But dear familiar thoughts, for all that. They might be sung almost anywhere.

FAMILY LIFE

I KNOW a father of many and active children. He is husband of a more than active wife. And he was telling me that the trouble with a big and busy family is this: it has no family life. Even one member of it can wreck the Joint Plans by accepting an outside invitation, or by Asking People In. Now, a bachelor (says this father) . . . a bachelor has all the home life he wants, and even has a perfect family life, for he is always unanimous.

End of Gyration

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

UNDER-SECRETARY of State W. Be- dell Smith's journey to Geneva fortunately closes a period of dizzy gyration in American policy.

Joseph

The background story is as curious as it is instructive. Probably the best place to begin is with the Eisenhower-Churchill-Dulles-Eden "diplomatic week-end," as it is now called at the State Department. At that time, remember, Pierre Mendes-France had already become French Premier, with the avowed aim of getting peace in Indo-China. And here in Washington, those policy-makers who wanted American intervention instead of a new Munich in the Far East, had already been routed.

In these circumstances, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill discussed and agreed upon the kind of Indo-Chinese settlement that America and Britain could accept and guarantee. The terms they approved rather closely resembled the terms of an "honorable settlement," as defined in Paris by Premier Mendes-France.

Thus, they decided, there would be a defensible line in Indo-China. Hence, they also decided, the line in Indo-China could be guaranteed, and we could say to the Communist world in effect, "if you cross the line to grab at the rest of Indo-China, we shall fight."

These decisions fitted very neatly, in turn, into the major decision of the diplomatic week-end. This was the decision to proceed without delay to form a South Asian defense community, in order to halt Communist aggression in this whole crucial area.

For reasons both moral and domestic-political, however, the President held firm on one point. If the French reached a reasonable Indo-Chinese settlement with the Communists, he would guarantee it. But he would not be a direct party to the settlement itself. That must be a French responsibility.

EISENHOWER POSITION

Such was the meaning of the President's seemingly mysterious press conference statement, about never being a party to handing over anyone to Communist tyranny. He would watch. He would consent. But he would not join in giving North Viet Nam to the Communists.

The Eisenhower-Churchill understanding as to Indo-China was communicated to Paris in "the seven-point paper," as the arguing diplomats have come to describe it. The President's decision to guarantee the settlement but not to join in it was immediately denounced in Paris, not without logic, as Pharisical and hampering. Yet the promise of a guarantee for a reasonable settlement nonetheless gave satisfaction to Premier Mendes-France.

In Washington, meanwhile, there was the guilty sense of having passively consented to another great Communist advance. The first result was to fill the air with official protestations that everyone else—every ally of this country—was to blame while we were blameless. The protestations became all the louder when the domestic-political atmosphere was suddenly super-heated by Sen. William Knowland.

KNOWLAND EXPLOSION

The Majority Leader's explosion about admitting China to the United Nations made the administration more eager than ever to "dissociate" itself from anything hinting of appeasement. Whenever a settlement was reached at Geneva, it was bound to hint of appeasement. Hence the additional decision was taken that neither Secretary of State Dulles nor Under-Secretary of State Smith would even be physically present at Geneva to see the deed done.

On top of all this, presumably from sheer petulance, it was disclosed that we had withdrawn our offer to help the French train Vietnamese troops. The total picture painted, in short, was a picture of the United States picking up its marbles and going on home.

For Premier Mendes-France, this was utterly disastrous. The military situation in Indo-China was already bad and getting worse. On the basis of the military realities, the Communists were justified in demanding something very like French capitulation. There was only one thing that could bring the Communists to offer Mendes-France his "honorable settlement." They had to fear a wider war but the Communists would see no danger of a wider war, with the United States publicly picking up its marbles.

STEWART ALSOP
Hence both Mendes-France and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden sent Secretary Dulles just about the strongest messages that have been exchanged between the Western allies since the end of the second war.

There were no overt threats, but the meaning of the messages was plain. First, if we completely "dissociated" ourselves from Geneva, there would be an open break in the Western Alliance. Second, beside vastly inflaming the Indo-Chinese problem, this extreme American dissociation would probably kill all hope for a South Asian defense community, leaving the whole area at the mercy of the Communists.

In response to these messages, therefore, Secretary Dulles had to go to Paris. And having gone to Paris, he had to send Under-Secretary Smith to Geneva. Only one big question thus remains.

Will the Communists in fact offer Mendes-France the "honorable settlement" which he insists is the very least he will take? Maybe they will do so. But if the Communists are greedy, the French Premier says he will fight on. And then the question of American intervention in the Indo-Chinese war will be reviewed with great suddenness and extreme urgency.

TWO FOR A QUARTER?

WE hear that the bus fares are to be raised to 13 cents. Have they ever thought of the extra trouble they are giving their drivers and the travelling patrons?

Why not make it 12½ cents and have two tickets for 25 cents and 40 away with coppers for the adult patrons.

AFTER THE BLOODLESS COUP

TWO items of interest have developed in the political arena of British Columbia namely, one, that the present so-called Social Credit government is to have its own newspaper and, secondly that the Mr. Gunderson, whom the electorate rejected twice, is again to be for the second time, entrusted to travel abroad with an entourage in the name of the people of British Columbia on matters of economic moment purportedly. It all has a fascinating touch of intrigue, especially as the Premier still holds the portfolio of Finance Minister in custody—one wonders for whom?

British Columbia has set a charming example of how to make a political coup without bloodshed; so different, yet with very much the same end effect as the ghastly affairs that are taking place in many parts of the world in the perilsous struggle between reaction and progress. Reaction is showing its fangs in the endeavor to crush all liberal thought and mangle all opposition to the arrogant desire to dominate.

We notice how matters of great moment to the people of British Columbia are being completed without benefit of Parliament either provincially or federally. Politically we have a nice variety of labels across Canada but clearly defined the people of Canada are under a dictatorship of Whiggism, which has been able to evolve in chamberlain style because of the lack of opposition from the legislative body. That is the way he people are deprived of their rights and the enemy is not a new one that is showing its renewed virility. Machiavellian tactics can achieve the almost impossible by mixing poison with the antidote in order to make the end justify the means.

Tale o' the Tartan

THE TIMES (London) TEXTILE SUPPLEMENT

THIRTY years ago neither London nor the world beyond Britain's shores was interested in tartans. Tartan was for the Scot, more especially for the Scot with the prescriptive right to wear it.

Its use as a fabric for general wear had not then been contemplated, and the Scots might not have looked with favor on the abuse of their Clan tartans. But the need for expanding exports, together with the discovery of tartan as a fashion cloth, has greatly altered the picture.

Today the most famous tartan manufacturing firm in Scotland, Peter MacArthur and Co., Ltd., of Glasgow, with 230 tartans in their range, have three of Scotland's most up-to-date mills working on tartans, chiefly for export. Such is the demand for the cloth today that they cannot accumulate any stocks, and of the 230 tartans in their range 135 are in current production. This success story can be repeated by every manufacturer of tartan in Scotland, most of whom make cloths which are a mixture of worsted and saxony, soft and yet hard wearing.

STUARTS FIRST

Tartans for fashion wear are chosen for their color, and the public taste alters unaccountably and suddenly. The Stuart tartans are always popular, and, of course, so is the Princess Margaret Rose tartan. In the last few months the Mackenzie tartan is finding high favor, apparently for no specific reason. Tartans belong originally to the Highlands, but after Scotland was united with England the Lowland Scot, who had no distinctive garb to differentiate him from his old enemy over the border, seized on the tartan as a national emblem, and from about that time Lowland tartans were added to those existing in the remoter Highlands.

From early times the Celtic inhabitants of Scotland were experts in dyeing and made use of vegetable agents for getting their colors. In tartans he color is solid in the yarn and the blending of the colors takes place in the weaving. Great variety of pattern has been evolved, always within the limits of a chequered design.

ANCIENT ORIGIN

Some of the designs are old; they were handed down from one generation to another, within the Clan, chiefly by means of the warping-sticks, the sticks on which the threads for the warp were rolled. These were carefully marked with the number of threads of each color in the pattern across the cloth. A similar method of recording the threads in the weft was also used. The untidied often use the word plaid erroneously when they mean tartan. The plaid is, of course, part of the Highlander's costume. It is the tartan garment, a sort of shawl, which is attached to and worn over he shoulder. The word tartan is derived from the French; its Celtic name is Breacan.

TABULATED HISTORY

If we pass over the triumphs of the human spirit, we are neglecting the very things most fitted to be studied as ends in themselves. Historians may be tempted to behave sometimes as though only those things are worthy of attention which gain importance from the fact that they led to something else.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"I'M ALWAYS PLEASED TO SEE DENNIS LOOKING SO HEALTHY AND STRONG. I HEAR SO MANY THREATS AGAINST THE LAD..."

From Our Files

July 19, 1894 — The advance brigade of the Syndicate Shows and Paris Hippodrome is in the city. The twenty men are pasting posters on billboards for the show in the city July 26 and 27.

July 19, 1914 — Completing a 77-day passage from the river Tyne, the new trawler Onward reached William Head last evening at 7 o'clock and after receiving pratique, called here and proceeded to Vancouver.

July 19, 1934 — The press last evening was excluded from the meeting of the Saanich school board's meeting. An appeal against the board's decision to oppose a beer license for the 4-Mile House was discussed.

Rich and Strange

FRIDAY was a bad day at our house. The supper roast was running red with blood, the potatoes were cooked to a pulp, the carrots were so raw they bounced, and the cake-top pudding sported half an inch of charcoal. (Or so the family claimed. I'd put it at a bare 1/4 inch).

The reason for this domestic crisis was "Yellow Boots" by Vera Lysenko. Except for putting the various supper items into the oven or on to the stove, I read steadily from lunch until supper.

I'm glad I did. I'm glad, too, that I bought a copy of "Yellow Boots," because I'm sure that, as the years go by, I shall want to reread it often. Also, a woman who can write like Vera Lysenko deserves every encouragement she can get. I understand now what a certain reviewer meant when he wrote, "This is without question one of the best novels ever written by a Canadian."

Ruth

It's the story of Lilli Landash, the child of Ukrainian immigrants near Winnipeg. It starts in the year 1929 when the Ukrainian immigrant settlers who were still pioneering on the Canadian prairie wilderness had not yet lost their power to create song. Lilli, a small sickly child, unlike the others in the large healthy family, is possessed of a wonderful singing voice, inherited from the wandering minstrels who were her forebears. She hears music in all the doings of every day and even as a small child tries to translate them into song. Eventually, she escapes from the physical drudgery of the land and goes as a domestic to Winnipeg and later becomes a travelling folk singer.

But the bare bones of the plot give no idea of the quality and intensity of the book. It's written with a poetic passion that is the mark of those who write of things felt in the blood, and from along the heart.

I was not surprised to find, therefore, that Vera Lysenko was born in Winnipeg of Ukrainian Baptist parents and grew up hearing much about the problems of immigrants and their children. (Her first book (1947), "Men in Sheepskin Coats" told the story of the migration of the Ukrainians to this country.)

For "Yellow Boots" is far more than the story of Lilli Landash. It's the story of all immigrants, especially those of peasant stock.

The parents cling to the traditions of their own particular Old Country, the children grow into Canadian ways. There is the familiar conflict between the Old World and the New, the struggle of the parents to achieve material prosperity, the heartbreak of the immigrant in exile.

It's a rich book, full of color and sound and movement, with brutality and beauty, youth and age, and the centuries-old, pulsating rhythm of the land.

I shall never forget it as long as I live. It seems to me that it could be translated perfectly into ballet. The Death Riders, the Shroud Makers, the Spring Dancers, the Immigrant Carriers, the Wreath Plaiters, the Watchers of the Pascal Night, almost every one of the 40-odd chapters in the book would make a perfect little ballet of its own. Linked together and put in film form, they would make an artistic movie that would give pleasure in many countries of the world.

This is truly a rich and strange and beautiful book that reminded me, curiously enough, of Ukrainian embroidery. There's the same almost barbaric intensity of colour woven into patterns which, with slight variations, have been handed down from generation to generation.

I finished "Yellow Boots" feeling that I was indeed lucky to have been born in such an interesting and peculiar land, and that this book, though concerned only with a particular group and setting, is a definite part of the pattern of the whole.

In her foreword Vera Lysenko writes, "For all those whose forefathers suffered the anguish which the immigrant must endure when he is called upon to surrender his ancestral rites, this story of a girl's search for music is offered as a reminder of their lost inheritance, and to preserve for them something of the old beauty."

I would, with all sincerity, recommend this book to anyone who still thinks of Canadians as being only of French or British stock. (There are not many of these left, but the bulk of them is congregated in Victoria.)

Especially would I recommend "Yellow Boots" to the new Canadians who are still a little lost and homesick for the lands from which they came.

Reading it, they will find that they are not alone, but are treading the difficult and often tragic path along which thousands of immigrants have come.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

That Chest Examination

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

THE OTHER day I had luncheon with my interesting friend, George Sluka, who is a most versatile man. Among his several jobs is that of helping delinquent boys. He can help them because, with his fine athletic record, he is a hero to them. He is also working with the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County.

He was telling me about the peculiar excuses people give for not accepting a free X-ray examination of the chest. It would take them only a few minutes, because all they have to do is step up to the machine; they don't even have to undress. A week later they get a confidential report on what was found.

One would think that everyone would be mighty glad to have such an examination made when it does not cost anything, and when it may save his or her life, but many a man or woman has to be talked into it, and some absolutely refuse. Many of those who refuse are doubtless afraid that their lungs are bad, and they don't want to face the music. But how stupid this is, when ignorance so commonly leads to death.

A woman will say, "No thanks. I don't want any examination. If there is anything wrong with me I don't want to know about it. I will find it out soon enough." The fact is that with tuberculosis, one does not always learn about it soon enough. I have seen it smoulder for years unrecognized until it was too late for a cure.

Another woman will say that she hasn't the time but will drop in again some day. A few people are so cagey, and suspicious that they do not trust their fellow men. They feel there must be "a catch in it somewhere," and the first thing they know, they will be getting a bill!

Other persons say they are so sure they are healthy that they will not bother to be examined. A few go to the other extreme; they think they are very ill and wonder if they cannot get, at the same time, an X-ray examination of their stomach and kidneys!

Then a "wise guy" comes in, and wants to know if having his chest X-rayed will cure his hay fever! Older people sometimes say they can't be bothered because they are so old that if they are going to die it is alright with them. They forget or do not know that if they are tuberculous and are coughing out germs every day, they are almost certain to infect some of their grandchildren, and thus in a way, to kill them slowly and cruelly.

Many people don't want to be X-rayed because they say, "Supposing you found something; you couldn't cure it anyway." They are wrong; find it early and usually it can be cured. Even cancer can be cured if found early enough. Today surgeons operate in the chest just about as easily as they operate in the abdomen, and hence they are now taking out cancers, and lung lobes that are badly injured by tuberculosis, or filled with dilated bronchi (air tubes) which contain much pus.

Curious has been the reaction of most persons who, in certain cities, have been given a free X-ray examination of the stomach. When told that they had a cancer of the stomach so small that it could probably be removed with complete success, they said that it didn't hurt, and it didn't cause indigestion, and hence they could not believe they were sick. They preferred to wait until there was no doubt about the presence of severe illness. They were told that then there would be only a small chance that a surgeon could ever get the thing out; but, still, most of them refused to do anything.

Others said, "Oh, leave it alone, I don't mind dying." But, perhaps a year later, the man came back complaining bitterly of pain, vomiting, emaciation and weakness, and demanding that something be done for him. By then, usually, little could be done, because the tumor was stuck to important organs, like his liver and pancreas. It could not be removed.

The other day I saw a poor mother crazed by anxiety because her little boy of two years had a malignant tumor in one eye. All of the ophthalmologists who have seen the child have felt that the tumor must be malignant, and they have all wanted to take the eye out quickly, as the only means of saving the child's other eye and his life.

This is sad enough, but what is sadder is that the distracted mother was not doing anything. She kept hoping to find someone who would tell her that the doctors were wrong in their diagnosis; and she just could not make up her mind to consent to the removal of the eye. At times, she felt she would as lief have the child dead as without an eye. But, again, the sad fact is that if the operation is not quickly done, the tumor will soon have grown to such a size that it cannot be removed completely enough, and then the child will die. And then the mother may become crazed with feelings of guilt; she will say she let her child die, then she will fear that "God will never forgive her."

Seattle Man Top Sailor in Cruiser Race

Margin of Error .8806 Per Cent

NANAIMO—Dale S. Cogshall, Queen City Yacht Club, long-time secretary, president, vice-president and judge of the International Power Boat Association annual cruiser race, won the coveted "overall" award with his Hawkeye when he crossed the finish line here Saturday night with only .8806 error in predicted time from Bremerton.

Of the 141 boats to start the race, 129 finished.

From finish time Saturday night until Sunday afternoon, the air around Nanaimo Yacht Club ran hot and cold and contestants' hopes rose and faded as rumor made the rounds. Three times word got around that certain boats had won either top award or class award, then had suffered penalties.

LONG EXPERIENCE

After a big shuffle, harassed judges came up with Mr. Cogshall as winner. His long experience as judge, and jobs around the international race for many years stood him in good stead. Judges found his charts and data in apple pie order.

Chief Judge Evert Landon, commodore of Tacoma Yacht Club, at prize giving said: "It may seem that we have had to impose heavy penalties, but rules are made to be followed and we have done our best to apply them in a fair and equitable manner. We have to abide by these rules. The course has to be linked in as specified. Check points are plainly marked, distances must be kept."

Mayor George Muir presented Dale Cogshall with a "key" to the city of Nanaimo, which, quipped the mayor, "will open everything around here except the liquor store and our parking meters."

Commodore Ches. Swanson, Nanaimo Yacht Club, presented the winner with a club burgee and scroll.

WARM WELCOME

Dr. L. Giovando, M.L.A., welcoming the visiting yachtsmen, said: "If we could have more of these sporting affairs to share there might be a lot less disagreement on international matters."

Following is the official list of winners in the five classes, posted late Sunday afternoon:

Class One—"Connie B." skipper, E. G. Henry, Rainier Club, Seattle. Class Two—"Ninara," R. Stroble, Queen City Club, Seattle. Class Three—"Holiday II," R. Rathbone, Queen City Club. Class Four—"Alerion," Ed Monk, Queen City Club. Class Five—"Eugenie," D. M. Hediund, Seattle Yacht Club.

Harmac Hopes To Kill Odor At Pulp Mill

NANAIMO—Some progress is being made toward elimination of the smell at the Harmac pulp mill, C. W. E. Locke, general manager of the company's pulp division, told Rotarians here.

The problem, he said, is that while the present sulphur content in the air is 20 parts per million, the smell is noticeable until less than one part per million remains in the air.

B.C. Research Council is carrying on extensive experiments at Port Alberni, he said, and whenever an answer is found to the smell problem it will be applied immediately at Harmac.

Meanwhile, Mr. Locke said, the mill employs 450 people, and 3,000 are dependent on its operation. The pulp division alone buys $500,000 worth of goods locally each year, the company pays 21 per cent of all school taxes in the district, and the annual payroll of the pulp division is $2,300,000.

IWA Says Color Ban Practised at Youbou

Number of East Indians Reduced Almost 50 Per Cent at B.C. Forest Products

DUNCAN—B.C. Forest Products Ltd. at Youbou was charged at a membership meeting of the International Woodworkers of America, Local 1-80, here Sunday with exercising racial discrimination.

Percy Clements said that racial discrimination has been going on for two years. The special case which he cited involved five East Indians who are living in a bunkhouse at Youbou and are still waiting for jobs. He said that two years ago there were 72 East Indians working at Youbou. That figure had been reduced to 40, he said.

Mr. Clements said that the five East Indians had applied for work repeatedly and had been told that there was "none at the moment."

"We cannot tell them who they can hire, but something should be done before it gets out of hand," he said.

Main business of the meeting was nomination of delegates to attend the 18th IWA convention at Milwaukee, Aug. 23-27.

The following were nominated and 15 will be selected by ballot: K. Parsons, W. Hawkes, M. MacKinnon, W. T. Morgan, J. Morris, W. Cox, T. Poje, J. Humphries, J. Atkinson, R. Preus, R. Biers, G. Donaldson, B. Smith, L. Johnston, E. Linder, C. Peireo, J. Erickson, K. Holmstrom and J. Colwell.

Two members from the following will attend the Canadian

ROSE GARDEN TRIBUTE TO WAR DEAD

CHEMAINUS—Canadian Legion Branch 191 has planned to create a rose garden on Cenotaph property here in memory of fallen veterans.

The idea was proposed by Al Biggs, past president, and the garden will be placed around the inside wall of the Cenotaph property. Those wishing to perpetuate the names of deceased veterans may plant rose bushes bearing nameplates in the plot.

Financial statement given by C. J. Loughton, secretary, showed the branch has spent $41,000 on its new building and $4,000 on furniture, and that interest charges on its bonds have been met.

McCarthy-Hitler Parallel Detailed by Sen. Flanders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep., Vt.) declared Sunday that the career of Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) "finds its parallel, though it must be admitted to a weaker degree," in the rise to power of Adolf Hitler.

Flanders charged also that McCarthy had made "a major contribution" to confused U.S. leadership at a time when, "wily nilly, our country exercises the leadership of the world."

Aiming for a showdown Senate vote Tuesday on his resolution to censure McCarthy, Flanders said the Republican party in its 100th year has reached the "parting of the ways." It must decide, he said, whether to follow the path of Abraham Lincoln or turn the other way and "choose the leadership of the junior senator from Wisconsin."

The 73-year-old Vermont's new attack on McCarthy is contained in the speech he plans to make to the Senate on Tuesday in offering his censure resolution. Flanders said he was taking the unusual step of releasing the text of the speech two days ahead of time so his fellow senators and the public will have time to study it.

CHANGES TACTICS
The Vermont senator has dropped plans to seek approval of his resolution designed to deprive McCarthy of all his committee chairmanships. He said he thought he had more support, enough for Senate passage, of his resolution to censure McCarthy's conduct as chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee as "unbecoming" a senator and "contrary to senatorial traditions."

Recounting his own trips to Germany during the rise of Hitler, Flanders drew parallels with Hitler to the career of McCarthy. He said: "Hitler exploited the issue of communism, and on it he rose to power. When it became convenient, he allied himself with it. But ultimately he went far afield from communism. He set his nation against the Jews and brought them to unimaginable cruelties. He destroyed the free labor unions. He set up his private police force and spy system. He worked toward, and ultimately achieved for himself, the sole authority in government, in business and in society in general. Curiously enough his financial support came from wealthy business men, some of whom lived to regret the contributions they had made.

"Each of these features finds its parallel, though it must be admitted to a weaker degree, in the career of the junior senator from Wisconsin."

IF STANLEY DOES IT HE'LL CHANGE HISTORY

LONDON (CP)—Stanley, the patient penguin, is setting on a tennis ball, hoping it will hatch.

A bachelor with fatherly instincts, Stanley got tired of watching his king penguin neighbors, George and Mary, nursing their egg.

He tried to steal it, so sympathetic keepers at London zoo gave him the tennis ball.

Stanley nurses it on his feet, the way penguins do. Occasionally he tries to lure Mary over to do duty on his ersatz egg, while George spells her on the real item.

Stanley will keep his tennis ball until George and Mary hatch their egg. After that, nobody knows.

Moon Flights Seen Within 30 Years

MOSCOW (AP)—A leading Soviet scientist predicts the Russians will create within 10 years an artificial satellite of the earth. He also says a space ship carrying two or three persons will make a flight around the moon within 30 years, and that flights to the moon and return will be accomplished within the century.

These are all "conservative dates and we should count upon these achievements earlier than this," adds V. Dobronravov, Dobronravov is deputy chairman of the scientific-technical committee QOF cosmic navigation in the Central Air Club of the Soviet Union.

$14 Million Cable to Link U.S.-Alaska

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. announced today it plans to construct a $14,000,000 underwater telephone cable system linking the U.S. with Alaska.

The proposed system will stretch 800 nautical miles between Port Angeles, Wash., and Ketchikan, Alaska. American Telephone said the project should be completed by 1956. It will provide, for both public and defense purposes, a "speedier means of telephone communications between Alaska and the United States proper," the company's statement said.

Telephone service between Alaska and the U.S. mainland now is provided over 13 radio and land line circuits which the company said are inadequate to handle equipment and estimated future business.

Attendance Record Broken At Stratford

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—Attendance records were broken at the end of the third week of the second annual Shakespearean festival here.

About 13,750 persons saw last week's seven performances. They filled the theatre to 99 per cent of its seating capacity.

Total attendance to date, including extra seats added this year, is nearly 41,000, festival officials said Sunday. It was 31,000 at the same time last year.

Gross box office receipts for last week were $43,100, an increase of $1,600 over the second week.

Saturday was the festival's biggest day of the current season, both in ticket sales and in the town's accommodation of visitors. More than 2,300 meals were served during the week by organizations supplementing Stratford restaurants.

The festival concludes Aug. 21. Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure" and "The Taming of the Shrew" and Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex" are being played this summer.

Prepare Family Against 'H-Bomb Day' Warns Professor

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A member of the family. Dad can load the car for example, while mother looks after the suggests family preparation against any "H-bomb day."

Experience has shown that activity reduces fear and anxiety, Dr. David Boder said Sunday. He has studied the impact of disaster on large populations. Among his suggestions:

Plan specific duties for each member of the family. Dad can load the car for example, while mother looks after the suggests family preparation against any "H-bomb day."

Decide in advance on a familiar rendezvous in case family members are separated. Have identification tags for all the family bearing name and blood type. Invest in bonds that are cashable even if lost or destroyed, especially with a list of serial numbers.

Former City Golfer Hits Jackpot

Fletcher, left, professional from Saskatoon Golf and Country Club, and former Victorian, shown with famed Seagram Gold Cup, and Doug Bajus, of Vancouver, amateur. Fletcher won Canadian Open golf championship at Vancouver Point Grey Saturday, while Bajus ended up leading amateur in golfing classic.

EX-VICTORIAN ENDS 40-YEAR DROUGHT FOR CANADIANS

Fletcher Wins Canadian Open Golf Title

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pat Fletcher, 38-year-old professional from Saskatoon, won the Canadian open golf championship Saturday with a four-under-par 280 for the 72-hole distance.

It was the first victory for a Canadian in the open in 40 years, and Fletcher won by a four-stroke margin over Gordie Brydson of Toronto and Bill Welch of Kennewick, Wash., tied for second place at 284.

The amiable, 192-pound

Fletcher, once a caddy at the Victoria Golf Club, shook off an unsteady front-nine in Saturday's final round and came down the back stretch with a brilliant three-under-par 32 under terrific pressure.

That last-chance show, with never a sign of the jitters, was enough for him to snatch the lead from Brydson.

Fletcher wound up the tournament with rounds of 65-70-71 for his 280. It was the only figure under par for the full route. Point Grey, where accuracy is paramount, gave up its par 71 reluctantly and no one could bear the tightly-treed layout for each of the 18 hole rounds.

Brydson started the final round at 207, with a two-stroke lead over Fletcher and a three-stroke lead over Bruce Cudd, a top-ranking amateur from Portland, Ore., and Bob Rosburg, husky pro from San Francisco.

Brydson's chances just about went sky high when he took a disastrous six at the par-four ninth and seven at the par-four 10th.

At one time in the last round Cudd had shot his way into a one-stroke lead and the possibility arose of an amateur winning the Canadian Open for the first time. But as the dog-fight went on, Cudd and the other hopefuls wilted. Tied behind Brydson and Welch with 285 were Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont.; Doug Bajus, amateur from Point Grey, and Cudd. The two amateurs started out all over again to settle low amateur honors and Bajus won at the first extra hole with a par five to Cudd's six.

Rosburg finished with 286, followed by Al Zimmerman of Phoenix, Ariz., with 287. Eddie Hogan of Portland with 288, and Al Balding of Toronto with 289.

Fletcher's victory brought him $3,200 in cash. He won $3,000 as winner of the Open plus $200 as low Canadian. He also won two cups—the Seagram Gold Cup, which was presented by John Landy of Australia, the fastest miler in the world, and the Rivermead Trophy as low-scoring Canadian. Landy is in Vancouver with the Australian team which will participate in the British Empire Games. Brydson and Welch each collected $1,350; Horvath $1,000 and Rosburg $800.

KIDS' DREAM GAME

L'il Stars Play Tonight

The baseball stars of tomorrow are scheduled to clash tonight at Little League Park at 6:30.

SCROGGS, ROGERS IN GOLF FINAL

Defending champion Frank Scroggs and Bernie Rogers are scheduled to meet next Sunday in a 36-hole final for the men's Uplands Golf Club championship.

Scroggs advanced to the finals last Sunday with a 4 and 3 victory over Gordon Pellow, while Rogers gained a final berth with a 2 and 1 decision over Gil Briscoe.

The event will be a sudden-death playoff between all-star Little League baseball teams from the National and American Leagues to decide a Victoria representative team for the Little League baseball sectional playoffs at New Westminster later this month.

In National League action Sunday, all four teams moved into a first-place deadlock as Odo Fellows blanked Gyros 6-0 and Rotary and North Kiwanis battled to a 7-7 tie.

The Rotary-Kiwanis game had advanced to the eighth inning but it was discovered that Kiwanis' pitcher Jackie Gaston had pitched more than 18 outs.

Under Little League regulations a hurler is only allowed to pitch 18 outs or six innings. Saturday in the American League, Lions downed Oak Bay Kiwanis, 6-4, while an injury to second baseman Ricky Gough forced Elks to default to league-leading Kinsmen.

ONE HITTER

Bill Barnes hurled a neat one-hitter for Lions.

Sunday, Billy Tonkin tossed a two-hitter for Odo Fellows. Lorne Poirier added Tonkin with a double and single in three trips to the plate.

John Ballack clubbed two doubles for Kiwanis, while Bobby Holness hit a three-run homer. Dick Munn had three hits for Rotary.

Boros Wins Golf Playoff From Fazio

CLEVELAND (AP) — Julius Boros, 34-year-old 1952 National Open champion from Southern Pines, N.C., won the $25,000 Manakiki Open Golf Tournament Sunday, defeating George Fazio of Pine Valley, N.J., in a sudden-death playoff after they had deadlocked at 280 for 72 holes, eight under par.

Boros took the laurels on the first hole of the playoff with a first shot, Fazio losing a shot when his second was trapped.

Fosters Win Pair

Joe Fosters scored two Senior B Men's Softball League victories over the week-end, shading Esquimalt AA, 8-7, in a 13-inning thriller Sunday and whipping Mary's Coffee Bar, 13-7, Friday.

Rod Turner went the distance on the mound for the winners Sunday and gave up 11 hits, as did losing pitcher George Kay. The winning run came on an overthrow error allowing a man to score from third in the bottom of the 13th inning.

Trabert Upset; Little Mo Wins

CHICAGO (AP) — Bernard Trabert, of San Angelo, Tex., defeated Tony Trabert of Cincinnati 6-2, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2, Sunday, to win the U.S. clay courts men's singles tennis championship.

Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., successfully defended her clay court singles title by overpowering Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-3, 6-1.

Vic Vans Take Lead In Bantam Playoff

Vic Van Storage took a large lead Sunday in their bid to capture the Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association bantam league playoff title.

Storageemen opened a best-of-five series for the title at MacDonald Park by sweeping both ends of a double-header, 5-2 and 13-2, from Esquimalt.

Dave Emery pitched two-hit ball, struck out 11 and walked but four in sparking Storageemen to victory in the first contest. Gary Lawrence tossed a four-hitter for the winners in the second game.

Emery aided his own winning cause in the first game by clubbing a triple and two singles in three trips to the plate to drive in two runs. Rod Skillings and Lawrence each added two singles.

Tom Scrase homered for Storageemen in the second game and Emery connected for a triple.

BLIND CHAMPION

WEST BOYLSTON, Mass. (AP) — Fred Shields, 57-year-old

Detroit business man, set a record Sunday to capture the U.S. blind golf championship with a 36-hole total of 205.

Brian Lenton tripled for Esquimalt.

Friday night, Storageemen moved into the finals with a 7-4 semifinal victory over Hagels. Chesterfield as Lawrence hurled a five-hitter for the winners.

In juvenile playoff action James Bay took a three-game lead in their best-of-seven final series.

Russ whipped Saanich, 13-1 and 14-7, in a double-header at MacDonald Park. Friday, Bays had taken the first game with an 8-0 victory.

Russ West picked up the mound win Sunday in the first game, while Jim Moody had three hits in five appearances at the plate and Gerry Gladson clubbed two hits in four trips.

Don McIntosh started the second game for Bays, but departed in favor of Russ West in the fourth. Moody added another two hits and Stan Bell connected for two singles.

Football sources said Sunday night that union delegates voted 6-4 Saturday at a closed ball-session meeting in favor of recommending to the C.R.U. that Weinmeister be classed as a Canadian player.

Weinmeister was born at Rhein, Sask., but played all his football in the United States. He now is classed as an import. League officials declined to confirm such a recommendation will be made.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders were reported to have voted against the move.

St. Louis Riot Brings Forfeit

Eddie Stanky, scrappy manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, boils on the hot seat today after a fist fight with Terry Moore, the man he fired as coach, and a forfeit to the Phillies for delaying tactics.

Stanky and Moore, new manager of Philadelphia, tangled in the midst of one of St. Louis' worst ball field riots in years Sunday to climax a flaming two-year-old feud.

After Moore was fired in 1952, he departed from his normal mid ways to blast Stanky. "When he loses a ball game he acts more like a nine-year-old boy than a manager," Moore said. "The job is too big for him. Stanky is temperamentally unsuited for the job of manager."

Fireworks were expected when Moore, named manager Thursday, met Stanky's Cards for the first time. The time was Sunday at Busch Stadium, 9-0. No individual records go into the book because the legal five innings weren't completed.

SCRIBES TOAST QUEEN ON QUEEN'S CHAMPAGNE

ASCOT, Eng. (Reuters)—With handle-less mugs and broken cups brimming with champagne, newspapermen stood at attention in the press tent Saturday and toasted Queen Elizabeth's good fortune after her horse won Britain's richest race.

The Queen sent over a case of champagne so that reporters could celebrate Aureole's victory in the King George VII and Queen Elizabeth Stakes.

The gesture was unique in living memory.

The writers toasted "The Queen, God Bless Her" and some added, "Here's a health unto Her Majesty."

Simpson Upsets Olds In Western Race Meet

Don Olds of Seattle and Victoria's Bob Simpson shared honors Saturday night in a big car auto racing meet at Western Speedway.

Olds, currently the leading driver in the Pacific Northwest, flashed to victory before some 1,400 fans in the trophy dash and first event, and placed second in the main.

Simpson won the thrilling 12-car main event after taking the lead on the first lap and dueling with Olds to the finish line. Olds, driving an Offenhauser, just failed to catch Simpson on the final lap in a skillful exhibition of driving.

Another American driver, Bob McLease, roared to victory in the second heat. Ed Kostenuk raced to the finish line in the third heat and Ray Pottinger won the fourth heat.

Olds barely failed to shatter the track record. He was timed

RCN GUNS BOOM AUGUST 11

8 Ship Steam-Past To Open Navy Day

Victoria will see the Royal Canadian Navy's fighting power Wednesday, August 11, in the most impressive opening "parade" ever staged for the annual Navy Day.

Instead of a shored-side parade of personnel on city streets, RCN officials have decided to parade their active ships in a "steam-past" off Beacon Hill Park, culminating in spectacular display of fire power as every ship's weapons are discharged, using live ammunition.

In addition to six ships of the RCN Pacific Command, two Bremerton-based USN destroyer escorts will take part.

Senior ship in the line-ahead review will be the 10,000-ton cruiser HMCS Ontario, the most-traveled ship in the Canadian navy.

Other RCN ships will be: Frigates, HMC ships New Glasgow and Stettler; mine-sweepers, HMC ships Sault Ste. Marie, Comox and James Bay.

The U.S. destroyer escorts will be U.S. ships Rombach and Brannon, both well known in this port.

The fleet is scheduled to be off Beacon Hill Park at 10:30 a.m., and the firing display will follow immediately, directly out to sea from Horseshoe Bay. Firing to seaward will take place as close inshore as possible.

All armament, from six-inch surface guns to anti-aircraft rapid firing guns, will be in action.

The balance of Navy Day program will revolve around HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard, both of which will be open to the public from 1 to 5 p.m.

It will be a regular working day at Dockyard, and visitors will see how shore workers maintain a fleet at sea.

One of the highlights of the varied program at HMCS Naden will be a demolition display by "frogmen." They will swim out into the centre of Esquimalt Harbor and attach demolition charges to a model ship, blowing it out of the water.

The best view of this display will be from the jetty at Government Dock.

Tours of Esquimalt Harbor aboard RCN harborcraft will leave from Dockyard, Naden, and the drydock jetty at 1:15 p.m. and each hour throughout the afternoon.

Boat transport will also be available to take visitors from Dockyard to Naden and return.

Among other highlights of Navy Day:

At Naden: The Physical and Recreational Training departments water show "Evolution of swimming, from the dog paddle to today."

The Atomic, Biological, Chemical and Damage Control center will co-operate with the Medical Branch to show decontamination procedure after an atomic or hydrogen blast.

WRNS will give two demonstrations of precision marching.

In addition to demolition of the "ship" in the harbor, frogmen attached to the Ordnance School will demonstrate training techniques in the Naden swimming pool, including building a wooden box under water, and the techniques of cutting anti-submarine nets.

Divers in standard equipment will also put on a display.

The Seamanship Training Centre will demonstrate modern life-saving methods.

The Torpedo and Anti-Submarine School will show various minesweeping methods in a model tank, activated with simulated mines.

A continual showing of naval movies will be held in the Naden theatre.

At Dockyard: The Dockyard detachment of the Naval Fire Service will put on a shore-side fire-fighting display, and the navy fire tug will operate in the harbor.

Shops including the torpedo, machine, boiler, rigging, shipwrights will be open to the public, and the central victualling depot will demonstrate the logistics of keeping a fleet supplied and at sea.

ALL SHIPS OPEN

The destroyer Athabaskan, in drydock for annual refit, will also be on display. All ships which took part in the morning review will be open to the public. HMCS Ontario will be at Naden, the others at Dockyard.

Navy Day will conclude with sunset ceremonies at the upper playing field, adjoining Naden's wardroom. At 4:30 p.m., picked gun crews will contest an unusual gun assembly and gun running contest, followed by the traditional flag lowering ceremonies.

The Navy will also perform the sunset ceremonies on the Legislative Buildings lawn, August 10, 11 and 12.

So Smooth for the Hands

Fireman Bill Milligan took time out to wash hands in stream of suds escaping from burning Central Cartage warehouse early today. The suds resulted after high-pressure hoses hit piles of packaged soap flakes. The alarm, turned in at 6:43 a.m., resisted efforts of 85 firemen for almost three hours. Roof fell through to badly-burned fourth floor. Lost were household possessions of 40 families and three floors of groceries including huge stocks of packaged soaps. Culture Grants Again Debated

Meeting Thursday May Consider Applications From Three Groups

The question of whether the city should give grants to cultural organizations may come before City Council again Thursday.

Council at its last meeting considered applications for grants from the Greater Victoria Arts Centre, Symphony Society and Musical Arts Society. It considered briefly whether it should make grants to such organizations whose members are residents of outlying municipalities as well as the city.

City Solicitor Arthur Patton advised council on that occasion that because of a recent amendment to the Municipal Act council would have to pass a by-law if it intended any of the three cultural organizations to receive civic aid.

On this advice, council turned to deal with applications from charitable organizations to which it had authority to allot sums by simple resolution.

The solicitor today cited section 32 (a) as the pertinent section of the act to which he referred.

The act says: "In every municipality the council may from time to time make, alter and repeal by-laws not inconsistent with any law in force in the province for any of the following purposes:

"32 (a) For granting such sum or sums of money as the council may deem proper from time to time in aid of the erection, establishment or maintenance of an arts centre or centre for cultural activities, whether such arts or cultural centre be erected, established or maintained within or without the municipality."

In the strict sense the applications from the three cultural organizations constitute "unfunded business" since they remain on the table from council's July 8 meeting.

Council is currently taking a summer vacation but is meeting specially Thursday to deal with a formality in connection with the impending arbitration of the outside workers' dispute.

Special meetings of council, according to the procedure by-law, can only discuss matters enumerated in the call to the meeting.

As it is up to the mayor to issue the meeting call, it will be his decision whether to call the meeting.

Three Sailors Fined On Car Taking Charge

Three sailors each were fined $75 in city police court today when they pleaded guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent.

Police said that Conrad Mervin Schneider, Louis Weber and Jerry Mayes, all of HMCS Ontario, had done $36 damage to the car of Richard Lyons, 719 Alderbury. They allegedly crossed the ignition wires while it was parked on Yates and drove to the Malahat.

POLIO VICTIM'S DOG BACK IN CUSTODY

Woman Snares Chase-Weary Airedale

Mike, the footloose Airedale, was found at 7:45 a.m. today after being loose nearly two weeks in a strange and what appeared to be hostile Victoria.

His owner is a 20-year-old polio victim who hospital authorities feared might be seriously affected by learning of the dog's disappearance.

But SPCA officials and an eager public retrieved him before his master's recovery was impaired.

Miss S. M. Pike, 1936 Brighton, lured the wary dog into protective custody after getting home from work this morning. The neighborhood was fairly quiet, and Mike was almost exhausted from being chased all day Sunday by people who were anxious to help.

In fact, SPCA officer E. Hayward, said "hundreds and hundreds of telephone calls poured in night and day," after the first news of the dog's absence from his temporary keeper's home here reached the public.

Mike found the city somewhat bewildering after coming from his Gabriola Island home, and not being accustomed to a collar and chain he rebelled and vanished.

Mr. Hayward reported calls had reached him from persons in such diversified points as Cordova Bay and Ten-Mile Point, saying they had spotted the dog and tried to catch him.

Citizens' Group Bucks Fare Hike

'Down Under' Students Will Visit Victoria

Plan Conference Session in City

Eighty-six high school and first-year university students of the Commonwealth Youth Movement, from Australia, New Zealand, Fiji, Uganda and South Africa, will visit Victoria Aug. 9 to 13 for final sessions of a conference and as part of a summer tour of Canada.

Final conference sessions will be held in the legislative chambers the evening of August 9.

While here the youths will be guests Wednesday, Aug. 11, of Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace at Government House.

Major H. Cuthbert Holmes and Mrs. W. W. McGill head the committee arranging the program for the visitors, assisted by a junior committee consisting of Bob Warren as chairman, Bernice Perfect, Ed Walters, Margaret McGill, Shirley Orr and Heather Adam, all of whom attended the Coronation.

MUTUAL PROBLEMS

The session in the legislative chambers will centre around mutual problems of Commonwealth youth and youth's future in the Commonwealth.

The movement had its origin at the Coronation of King George VII in 1937. Its purpose is to secure the greatest possible co-operation among Commonwealth youth.

The group to be billeted here in private homes, will attend opening of the British Empire Games in Vancouver.

The Canadian tour is under the patronage of Governor General Vincent Massey.

City-Wide Protest Petition Organized

A petition, objecting to any increase in bus fares, is to be circulated throughout Greater Victoria and presented later this month to the Public Utilities Commission.

Five private citizens are behind the petitioning move.

Harold Gibson, 1333 Pandora Avenue, is chairman of the group.

He and Mrs. E. Coltran, 740 Topaz, made announcement of the petition plan today.

"We're not forming any organization," Mr. Gibson said. "It is just that we, as users of the public transportation system, consider the B.C. Electric's application for higher fares a very serious issue. City Council has expressed itself against it. We feel the only way the citizens at large can show their opposition is by petition."

He said petition forms would be printed and placed in stores and other readily accessible places. A house-to-house canvass might be organized.

No specific objective has been set, but Mr. Gibson said he hoped the number of signatories would be "somewhere in the thousands."

He suggested the wording of the petition would be: "We the undersigned citizens of Greater Victoria are opposed to any fare increase on B.C. Electric transit service."

No Arguments, Just Opposition

He said the group initiating the petition move did not intend to prepare a brief on the subject of transit fares, but would confine itself to soliciting names for the petition.

Mrs. Coltran said everyone she had spoken to about the proposed increase in fares from 10 to 13 cents was "shut up" about the issue. She considered a fare increase would be a particular hardship on people with families.

She said she supported the petition idea because she knew that in other places things had been accomplished by petitions.

Mr. Gibson said the petition would be presented to the Public Utilities Commission at its sitting here July 29.

In the meantime, the Labor-Progressive Party here has written Percy George, commission chairman, protesting the date of the public hearing of the LPP here, said the date set by the commission does not allow adequate time for interested organizations to gather data, and prepare briefs.

She said the LPP considered "the decision to rush the hearing might be an indication that the PUC has already prejudged the opposition briefs."

Her letter to the commission chairman urged the hearing be set back to a later date.

Municipalities Meet BCE on Bus Question

Session Set Tuesday on Request For Higher Rates, Reduced Mileage

B.C. Electric officials will meet with representatives of the four municipalities Tuesday to discuss the company's bid for higher fares and an 8 per cent reduction in service.

A meeting of the Greater Victoria transportation committee has been called for Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the City Hall. The mayor today appointed Ald. Arthur Dowell and Ald. Millard Mooney to serve as the city's two committee members.

Municipalities of Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt each have one member.

The city and Esquimalt are already on record as being opposed to any increase in bus fares.

Saanich council has not as yet formed an official opinion, while Oak Bay merely received and filed the company's report when the matter came forward there.

The Greater Victoria transportation committee has not functioned for a considerable time. Its reorganization at this time is because City Council wanted the company's application for an 8 per cent reduction in service investigated and felt the metropolitan committee would be best suited to undertake this work.

It is assumed, however, that municipal representatives and company officials will want to discuss all phases of the company's application to the PUC; not just the reduction in service aspect.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—How high above the sea is Crater Lake, Oregon?

A.—The lake's surface is 6,160 feet above sea level. At places the lake has a depth of nearly 2,000 feet. It is four miles wide and six miles long. It has no visible outlet.

Q.—There is a poem which begins: "In the seaport of St. Malo." Will you please tell me the author and where I can secure a copy of it?—A.J.W.

A.—It is the poem "Jacques Cartier" by Thomas D'Arcy McGee (1825-1868), a native of Ireland and journalist, member of the Legislative Assembly of Canada and later one of the Fathers of Confederation and a member of the first House of Commons. He was assassinated April 7, 1868. His poetical works were collected and published in 1869 under the title "The Poems of Thomas D'Arcy McGee." The Victoria Public Library has volumes containing his poems.

His "Jacques Cartier" is in the B.C. Grade 3 reader titled "The Gay Adventurers." It is included in school readers across Canada throughout the years, the poem undoubtedly has fixed in the minds of great numbers of Canadians the fact that Cartier sailed from the old port of St. Malo, France, on his historic explorations in the St. Lawrence.

Aldermen Called On Arbitration Proceedings

City Council will be called to a special meeting Thursday to authorize City Solicitor Arthur Patton to put the city's seal on an agreement of reference required in connection with arbitration procedure respecting the city's dispute with its outside workers.

The agreement of reference must be submitted before D'Arcy Baldwin, appointed arbitrator in the matter, can begin hearing arguments of both sides.

However, making the coincidence even more striking is the fact that there is a noticeable resemblance between the two Florences; they are the same age and both do their hair the same way.

Oh yes, getting back to the question that uncovered the oddity, Florence Chadwick Williams thinks Florence May Chadwick will be successful in crossing the Strait of Juan de Fuca, "but not in less than 18 hours."

A battery of slide-rules and 10 stacks of logarithmic tables wouldn't be able to compute the odds of this coincidence.

Times reporter Ab Kent, the inquiring reporter for the weekly feature, What's Your Opinion, walked into a Port Street coffee shop Thursday. He was looking for public opinions on the question: What do you think of Florence Chadwick's chances of crossing the Strait of Juan de Fuca?

Kent spotted an attractive woman sitting at the counter, sipping a cup of coffee.

Kent approached the woman and asked her the subject question.

The woman smiled and replied, "It's odd that you should ask me that question. You see, my name is Florence Chadwick Williams."

Further investigation revealed that, as far as she knows, Florence Chadwick Williams is no relation to Florence Chadwick, the girl who will try to swim from Victoria to Port Angeles, in the $10,000 Bapco-Times swim, August 9.

Nor is Mrs. Williams any relation to Hollywood's leggy aqua-star Esther Williams.

Mrs. Williams, who came to Victoria from Fredericton, N.B., just three weeks ago, and from Manchester, Eng., four years ago, explained that the name Chadwick was the maiden name of her grandmother on her father's side and the name has been carried on as a middle name.

If there is any relationship between the two Florences, Mrs. Williams doesn't know about it, nor does Miss Chadwick.

However, making the coincidence even more striking is the fact that there is a noticeable resemblance between the two Florences; they are the same age and both do their hair the same way.

Drawings of Children Help to School Teachers

BY PENNY SAVER

At this time of year, when there are so many schoolteachers in Victoria attending summer school, I like to find something to interest them. And I've found just the thing!

It is a set of fairy tale pictures from Hans Christian Andersen stories, reproduced in Denmark from originals by school-children from 10 countries of the world.

When teaching art to children, these would be of great help, for you can show them drawings by children of their own ages in other lands. The name of the artist, and his or her age is printed on the card.

The pictures were discovered at Tivoli in Copenhagen, Denmark, at an exhibit of hundreds of such drawings sent in by children from Thailand to Egypt, from Japan to Finland—in all, 42 countries were represented.

The international exhibit was held under the sponsorship of the Danish Save-the-Children group and the International Union for Child Welfare. A box of 10 costs $1.35.

A gift the traveler would appreciate is a purse-size perfume puff. It is a small 14-carat gold-plated box, containing a tiny sponge, which the user must saturate with her favorite perfume. When she feels she needs a fresh application of perfume she has but to open the box and dab the sponge behind her ears. The joy of this is that when you tire of one fragrance just wash it out of the puff and refill with another! The gold box has a dainty filigree design and tiny leather handle of blonde, red or green for opening purposes. The perfume sponge box costs $1.95.

Another traveler's item is the push-button address book with a 14-carat gold-plated cover. Mark the letter you desire, push the button and the book opens exactly where you want it to! Size is one and a half inches by two and a half inches, and price is $1.95.

Do phone me at 2-3131 if you wish the name of the store where the above-mentioned items are available!

Finds Her Son's Wife Writing to Other Men

BY ELIZABETH R. HURLOCK, PhD

It is perfectly natural to want to step in and do something when it is apparent that things are going wrong. There are times, however, when it is best to resist this impulse. A mother writes:

(Q) "I know that my daughter-in-law is writing to other fellows, telling them how much she loves them and that she doesn't love her husband. The problem is whether to let my son continue in his 'fool's paradise' or tell him what I know. I really would hate to tell him, yet I hate to see him be fooled. I am not even sure he would believe me. If his wife said black was white, he would insist that it was white, too. Should I just let it go, hoping for the best?"

(A) I believe you should not interfere, although it will be hard for you. It will certainly be difficult to stay on friendly terms with your daughter-in-law, knowing what you know.

It is evident that your son is completely blind to the situation. The poor fellow is so hopelessly in love that he is unable to see anything but what he wants to see. It will be a terrific blow to him when he finally sees things as they really are.

Under no circumstances, however, should you be the one to open his eyes. He would bitterly resent your criticism of his wife and would ascribe your actions to mother-in-law jealousy. This would create a gap between you, something that would be most unfortunate now and even more so later when your son finally learns the truth and may want to turn to you for help and advice.

You would also antagonize your daughter-in-law. She might even try to blame you for the break-up of their marriage, using this as an excuse for her present interest in other men. As you can see, if she could convince your son that you had been responsible for breaking up their marriage, he would never forgive you.

For your copy of Elizabeth Hurlock's new 64-page booklet, "You and Your Problems," send 15 cents in coin with a self-addressed stamped envelop care of this newspaper.

Fats and oils which dissolve from coffee during the brewing process are deposited on the surface of the pot. If not removed immediately, they will become rancid and taint all coffee brewed in the same pot. So, make sure your coffee is thoroughly sudsed and rinsed each time you use it.

If your freshly washed and ironed clothes have a slight discoloration, you'd better check your ironing board cover. Keep it in top-notch condition by washing it several times a month in hot soapsuds.

Green vegetables should be stored in the refrigerator. When stored at room temperature, they lose vitamins.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The weather has always been a conversation piece. It still is, but today we can do something about it. Heat can be made, rain manufactured and air cooled.

Since more and more people are buying room air conditioners and still more are flirting with the idea of buying them, I thought it would be interesting to my readers if I found out some facts about air conditioning. Air conditioning has been available long enough now for scientific studies to have been made on its effects in all kinds of situations—on individuals in private homes, on workers in offices and factories, and on ill persons in hospitals. The results indicate that, far from being a luxury item, it is often a matter of health, comfort and personal efficiency.

For this information I went to Mr. Herbert L. Laube, president of Remington Corporation, because he has been air-conditioning the world for 25 years. Mr. Laube himself has had some most interesting experiences. He has traveled all over the world air-conditioning such places as the cow barn of a Singapore dairy, a Maharajah's palace in India and a stable for prize race horses in Ceylon.

During the Second World War he helped develop an air-conditioned suit for tank crews to wear to protect them against the torrid desert heat which turned the tanks into ovens, but the North African desert war ended before the suits could be put into use.

Studies have shown that air conditioning seems to have a beneficial effect on people with heart disease and high blood pressure because the heart doesn't have to work so hard keeping the blood in rapid circulation when the skin is being rapidly cooled and dried by air. Air conditioning is extremely beneficial to those who have respiratory allergies such as hay fever, ragweed fever and asthma, since it filters out 95 per cent of pollen from the air. Air cooling is a boon to those who are subject to heat rashes.

Recent studies in Texas have proved that air conditioning is more than a luxury. In one recent survey families with air conditioning reported that they ate better in the summer. Instead of skimpy cold plates, they ate nourishing hot meals. They found their sleeping better and reported having twice as much energy. Mothers related that the incidence of colds, cough and heat rashes was greatly reduced. They had less housework to do because they had to dust and clean less and when they did do their housework, they felt like doing it.

It seems that the world is getting hotter in more ways than one. Some people suffer with heat more than others but studies do show that efficiency and health are increased when the air is less humid and less hot.

Cool that HOT SUNBURN!

Get cooling, soothing NOXZEMA

Capt. "Sally" Hale, Lifeguard at Waikiki Beach says, "Get quick, cool, soothing relief with medicated Noxzema."

● Sunburn is no trifling matter, so don't fool around with unproved measures! For fast 3-second relief—get beach-tested Noxzema—the only sunburn cream with these 3 advantages. It cools—brings heavenly relief often in just 3 seconds! It soothes—feels so wonderful on hot parched skin. It helps heal. Its marvelous medicated formula helps speed healing of hot, dry, sunburned skin. It is more widely used than all other sunburn relief preparations combined. And Noxzema is greaseless...doesn't stain bed linen or clothing. Apply it and dress right away. So don't take chances with sunburn—get Noxzema. At drug, cosmetic counters. 26¢, 65¢, 89¢, $1.69 jars.

NEW! NOXZEMA now in convenient TUBES 65¢! For purse, travel, beach, office.

Medicated, Greaseless—Doesn't Stain!

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Care for the skin of your neck as you do for your face. Wash your neck with the same mild complexion soap and apply cold cream to keep the skin from drying.

A round face can look piquant in harlequin frames. But if your jaws are heavy, better lines are attained if the rims of your glasses slant upward. This also helps to streamline the chin.

Large wallpaper designs make rooms seem smaller, so these wallpapers are usually reserved for living rooms or foyers where there is little furniture.

To wash jeweled or very sheer nylons, try this. Shake them in a mason jar half filled with warm soapsuds. Then rinse the same way. Blot in a towel; hang over a smooth rod, or lay flat on a towel. Be sure to dry away from sun or heat.

Always measure your curtains before washing them. Most curtains, with the exception of nylon, shrink during washing and must be stretched to their normal measurements before re-hanging.

Half-Size Duo!

From this minute on, you'll wear and love the slenderizing sheath dress with the box jacket. Make it in cotton linen, or faille. It's easy to sew—proportioned to fit and flatter the short, fuller figure. No alteration problems.

Pattern 4773: Half sizes 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½, 24½. Size 16½ dress takes 3½ yards 35-inch fabric; jacket, 2½ yards.

This pattern easy to use, simple to sew, is tested for fit. Has complete illustrated instructions. Send 35 cents in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this pattern. Print plainly size, name, address, style number.

Send order to Anne Adams, care of The Times, Pattern Dept., 60 Front St. W., Toronto 1-A. Ont.

St. Barnabas Garden Party Realizes $600

Prof. Spencer H. Elliott, DD, of St. John's College, Winnipeg, officially opened the successful garden party sponsored by St. Barnabas' Church on Saturday afternoon on the University School grounds. Prof. Elliott is well known in this city as a former Dean of Christ Church Cathedral. Bright colored balloons and bunting created a gay setting for the party. Guests were welcome by the rector of the church and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Munn.

A sum of $600 was realized. Tea was served under the sponsorship of Mrs. Douglas Palmer, assisted by Miss Bernice Hughes. Among guests at the head table were Mrs. H. R. Ragg, Prof. and Mrs. Spencer H. Elliott, Rev. and Mrs. Munn and Rev. H. R. Whitehead.

Stalls included home cooking, confectionery, Mrs. F. E. Anderson and Mrs. J. Winterbottom; candy, Mrs. W. A. Gardner; sewing, Miss W. Seymour and Miss G. Brock; white elephant, Mr. P. Seale and Mr. W. Wilson; and mystery parcel, Mrs. H. E. Reid. Mrs. E. Foster had charge of a fish pond, and Mr. G. Fatt sold ice cream and soft drinks.

The Double D's Square Dance Group performed on the lawn during the afternoon.

Children attending were looked after in a special playground by Mrs. G. Ueh and ladies of the choir. They also enjoyed pony rides.

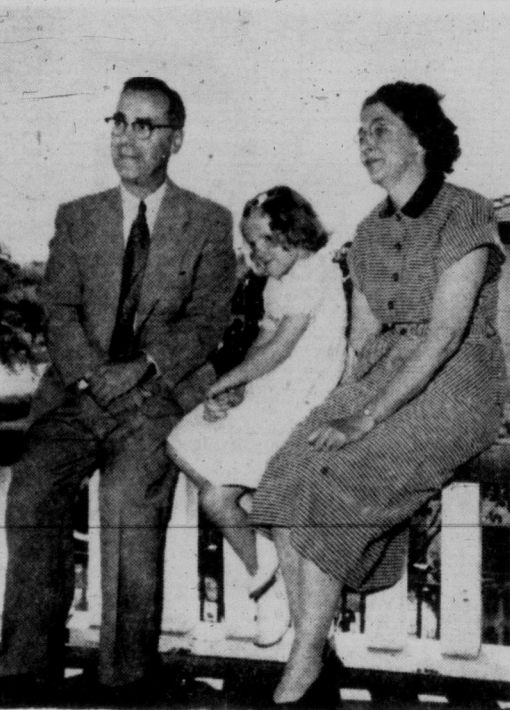

At the gate were Mr. C. Bett, Mr. R. Gowie and Mr. C. C. Guthrie, and Mrs. M. C. Truman had charge of tickets. Mr. J. Nickells was in charge of the public address system, while Mr. C. Norman looked after car parking. The colorful decorations were arranged by Mr. E. Foster.

SEMI-FITTED SUIT IS NEWS

NEW YORK (AP) — Designer Adele Simpson bases her fall fashion campaign on a platform of freedom: Freedom from restraint, freedom from fussiness and freedom from alterations.

Previewing her fall collection for the international fashion press, this diminutive mogul of high style introduced a number of new and easy silhouettes, most prophetic of which probably was her new semi-fitted suit, carefully shaped to give a smooth, supple line, but allowing the wearer room to take a deep breath without popping a button.

To relax tired hands after washing, ironing or any other household chore when your hands may get stiff, shake your hands hard with wrists loose. Your hands will feel relaxed in a matter of minutes.

Family on First Visit to Coast

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Jones with their daughter, Elizabeth, motored to Victoria from Drayton, Ont., on their holidays and to visit Dr. Jones' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Porter, 2802 Foul Bay Road. It was the Ontario family's first trip through the Rockies and they were "thrilled" with the scenery. Last Thursday they attended the symphony concert at the Butchart Gardens and thought this spot a "holiday wonderland." The concert in Beacon Hill Park last Wednesday was also labelled "wonderful."

LIKES CANADA

Politics Her Life Although Trained as Agriculturist

LONDON (CP) — A young woman learned in the ways of British politics and agriculture will be paying her second visit to Canada shortly — and she wouldn't mind staying there.

Canada's gain would be the loss of the central office of the Conservative party, for whom brown-eyed Elizabeth Briggs, 30, has been research assistant since the 1950 general election.

Miss Briggs, an Oxford graduate in agriculture, will be concerned mainly with revisiting her sister in Toronto. But an interest in Canada stirred by a 2½-month trip last year may lead to her making her home across the Atlantic.

Daughter of a one-time Leeds coalmine owner, Miss Briggs toured Canadian farms from Toronto to the Rockies and found them "an eye-opener." This applied to Canadian agricultural techniques in general, and Jersey and Shorthorn herd breeding in particular.

She also kept an interested eye on the Canadian general election. When she returned to Britain

Verna Jackson, Grant Craig Married In Lovely Ceremony at First United

A lovely wedding was solemnized, Saturday evening, in First United Church, when Verna Mary Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jackson, 3934 Shelbourne Street, became the bride of Grant Thomas Craig, Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Craig, Victoria.

The bride was an attractive picture in her gown of classical design, with bouffant skirt of billowing nylon tulle. The emerald bodice, peplum and jacket were of fine Italian straw lace. Neckline was heart-shaped and sleeves were long and lily pointed. A half hat of Chantilly lace satin and tulle was trimmed with pearls to hold her imported scalloped veil of silk illusion net. Her bouquet was of gardenias, red roses and lily of the valley. She was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor, Miss Betty Jackson, and bridesmaids, Misses Connie Douglas and May Villers, were gowned alike in blue embossed taffeta. Gowns were styled with full, flaring skirts and they carried baskets of blue and white summer flowers.

Denis Jenkinson was best man and ushers were Roy Clarke and Bruce Naylor.

At a reception held in the Duke of Kent room, Empress Hotel, Herb Bradley proposed the toast to the bride. Parents of the young couple assisted in receiving guests. Mrs. Jackson wearing a dress of pale blue embossed satin with corsage of pink roses and Mrs. Craig wearing a dress of taupe lace and corsage of red roses.

A profusion of summer flowers and lighted candles decorated the room and the newlyweds cut a three-tier wedding cake.

For a honeymoon motor trip to California, the bride chose a three-piece traveling ensemble of white flannel, navy accessories and orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig plan to live in Vancouver.

Married at Rossland, B.C., To Live at Port Alberni

Pink peonies, white honeysuckle and summer phlox decorated St. Andrew's United Church, Rossland, B.C., for the candlelit service which recently united in marriage Alice Mary, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Jordan, 1810 St. Paul Street, Rossland, and Peter William Chiko, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Chiko, 2310 Wark Street, Victoria. Rev. A. J. Lawton read the double ring service and Mrs. A. R. Dahlstrom played wedding music. Mrs. S. W. Potter sang "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white nylon tulle with brocade taffeta crinoline. The sleeveless lace bodice was topped with a Chantilly lace bolero jacket, styled with Peter Pan collar and lily point sleeves and the filmy bouffant skirt was accented with an all-round circular peplum, dipping to petal points, the peplum being placed between two layers of tulle in the double skirt. A seed pearl coronet held her chapel veil of matching tulle. American Beauty roses and white carnations formed her wedding bouquet.

Gowns of summer pastels were worn by the four bridal attendants. Miss Carol Martin, maid of honor, in pale blue; Miss Leta Camozzi and Miss Mary Winch, bridesmaids, in yellow and mauve, respectively; and Miss Holly Ann LePage, flower girl, in pink. Their ballerina-length gowns were of nylon organdy, the full skirts posed over crinoline petticoats. Tiny headbands in matching shades with clusters of flowers at either side were worn. Senior attendants carried eon

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

TUESDAY, JULY 20, 1954

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

— Conflict between desire to get off to appealing vistas at distance, and completing irksome chores should resolve itself by going along with sensitive member of your family.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — You feel like spending far more than you can afford, despite economy suggestion from friend who understands your position. Systematize your assets, then decide intelligent course of conduct.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Have you enough character to keep calm in spirit despite contradictory demands, made by both higher-ups and colleagues? If you have, the world is now your oyster, so practice peace that you have acquired.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) — In midst of conflicting views, ideas extended you by others, keep "cool, calm, collected" any you turn others gratefully to you to solve their vexing worries. Do your job in casual but thorough manner.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Inexpensive pleasures are just as satisfactory and make little drain upon your joint undertakings, which are now subject to strain anyway. Huddle with experts for best results now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Your true desires are made an actual part of your existence today if you stop fretting about conditions at home or with associates, opponents and work toward making them an actual part of your existence.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — This early part of week is today's child is one of those very interesting youngsters that will be imbued with a feeling of "divine discontent" so that he will never be satisfied with things as they actually are, but will always want to improve on them. Teach early, but that it's wise to have energy but it should be intelligently directed so that others are not aggravated, but that the force is placed in relation to things and the diplomatic and subtle attitude best in dealing with others. Fine for military, designing, etc.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Studying all aspects of your life with that astuteness you have that is rarely found equal in any other sign is aided by getting expert advice from those unknown to you before this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Now you have fine chance to use that art to hit the bull's-eye where money and property interests, allowance or pension, salary or accounts are concerned. Fix your mind on big benefits, then they are soon yours.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Forget yourself to day in listening carefully to understand what others, who have power in your affairs as partners, or opponents, have to say; then you see how real accord, understanding can be had.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Keeping your attention focused strictly upon your own job, whether at home, in the world of action, summer school, etc., dissolves likely opposition from trying to force others to your way of seeing things now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you will keep an understanding smile ever present, you will be able to turn opposition into active, stalwart support today; forget worries in assisting those less fortunate than you. Be happy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TUESDAY . . . Today's child is one of those very interesting youngsters that will be imbued with a feeling of "divine discontent" so that he will never be satisfied with things as they actually are, but will always want to improve on them. Teach early, but that it's wise to have energy but it should be intelligently directed so that others are not aggravated, but that the force is placed in relation to things and the diplomatic and subtle attitude best in dealing with others. Fine for military, designing, etc.

New members of Parliament will be chosen in five constituencies in Ontario and Quebec made vacant by two deaths and the resignation of three cabinet ministers July 1.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister St. Laurent has made no move to fill the 19 vacancies in the 102-seat Senate.

Two of the Commons by-elections will be held in Ontario constituencies whose previous members died: Rodney Adamson, Progressive Conservative in York West in the April 8 air crash at Moose Jaw, and Lionel Conacher, Liberal member for Toronto Trinity at a Commons softball game May 26.

NOT YET RESIGNED
 Former defense minister Brooke Claxton, one of the three resigned cabinet ministers, has not yet formally resigned from his Montreal constituency of St. Lawrence-St. George, but has said he will resume private life following his appointment as Canadian general manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.
 The other vacancies are in Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount held by former finance minister D. C. Abbott, who became a member of the Supreme Court, and Stormont, formerly held by transport minister Lionel Chevrier, now Canadian chairman of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

U.S. Netters in Sweep

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—The United States, already swept a semi-final advance, swept its series with British West Indies 5-0 in the American Davis Cup tennis competition Saturday by winning the final two singles matches.

Hamilton Richardson, captain of the American team from Baton Rouge, La., completed his victory over Derek Phang after rain interrupted the match in the third set. Richardson won 6-0, 6-0, 6-2.

In the final singles Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va., defeated Geoffrey Inglefield 6-0, 6-0, 6-3.

New Zealand Empire Games Team Arrives

VANCOUVER (CP)—Flags of four more outposts of the Commonwealth are flying here today heralding the week-end arrival of athletes from British Guiana, the Gold Coast, Hong Kong and Fiji.

Also arriving during the week-end was the remainder of the New Zealand team, including star miler Murray Halberg. Many New Zealanders believe Halberg has a good chance to beat England's Roger Bannister and Australia's John Landy, the only men to break the four-minute mile.

Five athletes came from British Guiana, nine from the Gold Coast along with three officials, five from Hong Kong and eight from Fiji.

The Fiji Islanders set a new fashion for men when they arrived in their grey sarongs and air force blue blazers.

Shotput Mark Broken
 TORONTO (CP)—One Canadian record and three police marks were broken at the 72nd annual police games here Saturday.

Tom Jones of Cleveland Pierce McDonnell Athletic Club and Miami Ohio University broke the Canadian open shotput record and then topped his own mark twice. Jones heaved the shot 51 feet 2 1/4 inches—51 feet 7 inches and 52 feet 6 inches on three successive throws.

Sweden Leads

BAASTAD, Sweden (AP)—Sweden pulled into a 2-1 lead in the semifinal round of the European zone Davis Cup tennis competition Sunday, scoring a surprising doubles upset over Belgium.

Sven Davidson and Torsten Johansson, a late replacement for ailing Lennart Bergelin, won a 6-3, 6-8, 3-6, 9-7, 6-3 victory over Belgium's Philippe Washer and Jackie Brichant.

JOHN NIAGARA talks about: Four ways to get a NIAGARA LOAN

Need money? Then the four different ways you can borrow at Niagara Finance will interest you.

First, domestic loans.... These are sometimes called "husband-and-wife" loans—they alone sign—it is arranged in about 24 to 36 hours and enjoys widespread popularity amongst Canadian couples.

Second, car or truck loans.... Here's one of the fastest ways to borrow money. It's very easy to handle, both from your point of view and ours. Motor owners can apply by mail or in person. Only the owner of the car and truck need sign. Details are often completed in as short a time as 10 minutes.

Besides loan plans which fit the needs of almost everyone, there are two good reasons for you to pick Niagara Finance for money requirements. Loans to $1500 are life insured at no extra cost to you. And rates on many Niagara loans are lower... in other words, you get more for your money! For full information, just drop in anytime or phone.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only... Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

Hat Union Offers $250,000 To Prevent Firm's Layoffs

NEW YORK (AP)—The AFL haters union has offered to lend $250,000 to a big women's hat manufacturer in order to prevent large-scale layoffs by the firm.

Plans for the loan were disclosed Saturday by Alex Rose, president of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International Union. The money would go to the Kartiganer Hat Corporation which produces $6,000,000 worth of women's hats a year in plants at West Upton and Milford, Mass., and Beacon, N.Y.

Rose said the union arranged for the loan after learning that creditors had told the company it must close two plants and lay off two thirds of its 1,050 workers.
 A creditors committee has already approved the union loan and agreed to withdraw demands for the layoffs, but the plan still must be ratified by the full group of creditors some time this week.
 The union offered the loan on condition that there will be no cuts in wages and working conditions and that a union accountant be allowed in the company's offices to watch the union's investment. The union wage scales range from $1.25 to $3 an hour.

B.C. Tories Split on Drew

MPs Quit Provincial Party After 40-24 Anti-Drew Vote

By TOM GOULD, Times Legislative Reporter
VERNON—The executive of the B.C. Progressive Conservative Association Saturday lined up for and against national leader George Drew, and the result was a 40-24 motion of non-confidence.

The secret vote was taken following a bitter, tension-charged seven-hour meeting, during which shouts of "Liar, cheat, lunatic, and shut up" punctuated the underlying seriousness with which most members considered the non-confidence action.

When association president Tom McDonald read the ballot result, the meeting hall was silent; several women started to weep, and there were no shouts of elation.

Almost immediately, Howard Green MP, Vancouver-Quadra, stood and in a quiet voice announced:

"The other two federal members (Davie Fulton, Kamloops, and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, MP, V.C. Esquimalt-Saanich) have asked me to speak for them as the senior member."

"We signified during the course of today's discussion our opposition to this resolution. The three of us now disassociate ourselves from this resolution."

Years of Frustration, Dictation

He outlined a history of events leading to Saturday's climactic meeting, "years of frustration and dictation," and entered a note of finality with the question:

"How long are we going to meet to plead unity to people who refuse to unite?"

"A party that is not united cannot unite a nation," he said.

Speaking of federal Conservatives' attempts to form two separate organizations in B.C., one to handle federal affairs, and the other for provincial, Mr. Finlayson said:

"Major General Pearkes says there is only one organization, but I ask you: If you cut a body in one-half, lay one half here and the other half there, you will have a hard time convincing anyone it is a whole body."

"It has come to this," said Mr. Finlayson, "in federal elections we are Federal Conservatives, but in provincial elections we are Social Credit Conservatives."

Government by Fragmentation

Mr. Finlayson said that unless the Tory party "kicked itself up and put its own house in order" Canada is "headed toward government by fragmentation."

"The hours are late," he said, "and this situation will not be resolved by having ping-pong games or playing bingo."

Stripping off his jacket, he shouted a challenge to the executive: "What are you going to do about it?"

Robert Patch, Victoria, who moved the non-confidence motion, read a letter signed by six association members from the Victoria area, in which General Pearkes was quoted as saying he knew: "A small group of people, headed by Howard Green, wants an alliance with Social Credit."

This was denied by General Pearkes, who contended his remarks, "made in the privacy of my own home," were only exploratory.

He said he was remarking only on the possibilities of what would happen if the Conservatives were elected with a minority in a federal election.

"I said only that if faced with that untenable situation we might either go to the people again, or try to make a working arrangement with Social Credit, or one other party."

"But this possibility has never been considered," he said.

Mr. Patch said: "I know in my heart I cannot go out of this meeting with any confidence in George Drew." He told of a letter to Mr. Drew seeking clarification of the party's position in relation to Social Credit, and started to say: "This association has not received any communication..."

Davie Fulton interrupted, shouting: "Why should he deal with a bunch of lunatics?"

Bedlam ensued. Fulton was asked to withdraw, he was ordered to leave the room, and was threatened with libel by a woman member of the executive. Shouts of "shut your dam mouth" and "throw him out" rocked the hall, while chairman McDonald pounded with a claw-hammer.

Eventually, Mr. Fulton withdrew his remark.

and demanded withdrawal of "this ridiculous motion."

General Pearkes said: "We are acting like little petty children who cannot see any other way of doing things." He defended Drew as being "a man who has proved himself in Parliament as a leader par excellence."

"You say you are going to sweep the country with a rebellion against George Drew," he said, and then proceeded to read letters from Conservative heads in the western provinces reaffirming their loyalty to him.

Gen. Pearkes quoted a statement from John Diefenbaker, who has been mentioned as a possible successor to Drew, in which the popular Tory MP said:

"I have no intention of leading or in any way being associated with any revolt, rebellion, or insurrection, directly or indirectly, against Mr. Drew the national leader, and that's 100% and no less."

"Nor have I had at any time anything to do with any such movement."

WARNING ISSUED

Federal members warned of the seriousness of the motion. Dan Lawton said: "If you pass this, it is going to have a bearing on the next six by-elections coming up in the east."

Another member called it a "life or death vote."

As the afternoon session progressed, Drew supporters became more and more confident. Mr. Fulton pleaded: "You leave us alone, and we will leave you alone."

"If worst comes to worst, let us agree to go along separately for a while instead of fighting," he said.

Howard Green said the non-confidence motion "can bring no help to either Mr. Finlayson or Mr. Drew. The only people it can help are our enemies."

He said the Conservative party "with luck can form the Canadian government in 1957. This is our opportunity."

"Make that your one consideration, and we can work together."

Speaker after speaker asked for "negotiation, unity," and many for withdrawal of the non-confidence motion. A five-minute recess was called to enable Mr. Patch and his second to reconsider.

Mr. Patch held hurried consultation with Mr. Finlayson and others, and finally told the meeting he would not withdraw.

The ballot was taken in silence, and groups formed in the hall to await the result. When it came, there was silence. Mr. Finlayson appeared worried and tired, and the three federal MPs grim and tired.

Finlayson made a short address, pledging his service to rebirth of the Conservative party, and said he would stay in office "as long as you continue to want me."

"Let us make a fresh start, and God help us," he said.

Vancouver Man Charged With Murdering DP

VANCOUVER (CP)—Peter Morris Vauchel, formerly of Quebec City, was charged with murder Sunday night in the love triangle slaying of 22-year-old Karl Horwood, who came to Canada from Germany a year ago.

The charge was laid almost 24 hours after Vauchel surrendered to police a few hours after Horwood's body was found Saturday in a dingy suite in a downtown rooming house.

Police said the immigrant had been stabbed to death with a butcher knife.

Police said they believed jealousy was the motive for the slaying which followed an all-night party. They said they had questioned a pretty brunette who was a guest at the party.

Marie Dionne Returns To Home in Callander

'Reasons of Health' Given as Cause For Departure From Quebec Cloister

WATERLOO, Que. (CP)—Marie Dionne, one of the world-famed quintuplet sisters, has given up, at least temporarily, the cloister of a Roman Catholic order in Quebec City and gone home to her parents, in Callander, Ont., it was revealed Sunday night.

Marie's departure "for reasons of health" was revealed by officials at the new Thabor convent Sunday. She left "some time Wednesday."

Efforts to trace her from the time she left the convent were unsuccessful until her brother-in-law, Maurice Girouard, revealed Sunday night that she had spent the week-end at his home here in the Eastern Townships and left Saturday night for Callander.

She arrived home by car Sunday morning.

Mr. Girouard said in an interview that Marie was accompanied by her brothers and her sister, Emilie, on her trip home. He said Emilie also arrived here Saturday after becoming lost in Montreal and asking directions from a policeman.

Mr. Girouard confirmed the announcement by Les Servantes du Tres Saint-Sacrement (Servants of the Blessed Sacrament) that Marie had left because of her health. He did not say whether she planned to go back to the convent.

He described Marie as "confused and homesick."

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic archbishop's palace in Quebec described Marie's departure as temporary but he said "It is not known at this time if she will return."

"Apparently all kinds of rumors started to spread when Emilie spoke to a policeman in Montreal," Mr. Girouard said. "The girl simply identified herself and asked for directions. She was visiting friends in Ste. Agathe and was on her way to Charles, Que., to meet Marie."

Mr. Girouard said police arranged through the archbishop's palace to take the girl to Waterloo. She arrived in a palace staff car. He said Marie and Emilie returned home with their brothers, Ernest and Victor of Callander and Oliva Jr., an airman at St. Hubert, Que.

Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi! A reputable insurance company recently released the appalling information that every year 1,000 Canadians die by drowning. Drownings reach their peak in July, male victims outnumber females eight to one, and the highest death rate is recorded among boys between the ages of 15 and 19. Swimming accidents account for the majority of the deaths.

One of my great ambitions when I am through with channel swimming is to open a string of swimming schools. My ultimate hope would be to teach youngsters to swim early enough to reduce the number of annual water tragedies.

Swimming is one of the greatest of all recreational activities, from a standpoint of health, economy and usefulness. Every muscle in the body and the major organs are exercised, it costs next to nothing to spend a day at the beach and you never know when the ability to swim and a slight knowledge of life-saving can save a life.

I feel, then, that it is imperative youngsters should not only know how to swim, but also they should be taught several vital rules for swimming.

For the sake of safety, the average swimmer should never swim alone. Even the strongest swimmer can develop a sudden cramp or tire unexpectedly. If there are other swimmers or boats nearby, a disaster can be averted.

Never swim too soon after a meal. Stomach cramps in the water are one of the greatest hazards of swimming.

Pay attention to warning signs and roped-off areas where you are swimming. They are put there for your own good.

Take care when swimming underwater or diving deep. Holding the breath too long can overtax the heart.

Don't over-estimate your endurance or under-estimate distances. That raft may look inviting for some sunning, but the distance may be too great for you. It would be foolish to take an unnecessary risk.

Two of Three Fishboats Reported Safe

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two commercial deep-sea vessels were reported safe today after being in distress or missing during the week-end, but the search was continuing for a third.

Still missing is the 35-foot United States trawler A-1, due in at Alaska on July 3.

It was believed the craft carried only one man, owner Carl Johnson of Friday Harbor, Wash.

The 52-foot Nightingale, also American, was safely beached 80 miles south of Prince Rupert, a large hole torn in her side. RCAF rescue teams reported the damaged craft and her crew were safe.

The heavy boat had radioed for aid after grinding part-way onto the beach.

RCAF reported that the search for the 52-foot Zapor, based in Vancouver, had been called off. The boat was due back in port at the July 12 close of the halibut season, but was not heard from. Radio check located the vessel in northern waters, and she reported she would be in Wednesday.

In Bread Strike

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Twenty-eight employees of Mrs. Wellman's cake shop returned to work today on the lifting of the lockout in the first major break in a strike-lockout which has tied up Vancouver's major bakeries for 12 days.

Warehouse Blaze Fought Three Hours

Almost all city firemen and equipment were busy three hours today in quelling flames which ate out top floor of Central Cartage Company warehouse at 535 Yates. Top photo shows firemen digging through rubble after roof crashed through to fourth floor. None was injured but unofficial estimates place damage near $150,000. Lower picture shows ladders used in scaling front of building when flames cut off stairway. Blaze, reported at 6:43 a.m., is second "incident" for cartage company recently. Vandals damaged nine trucks Friday. Police are investigating possibility of arson. (Times Photos by Irving Strickland.)

4 Violent Deaths Mar B.C. Week-End

(From CP, BUP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER — James E. Reeve, radio station engineer, died in hospital here today from injuries suffered Sunday when he was attempting to climb an aerial to a power pole.

Police said a 4,000-volt shock knocked Reeve from the metal ladder he had placed against the pole at the rear of his home. He suffered electrical burns, cuts and bruises.

All in all British Columbia had four violent deaths during the week-end.

Don Archibald, 42, died in Vancouver hospital Sunday less than three hours after he toppled off a 15-foot scaffolding he had erected to give his house a spring coat of paint.

Archibald died of severe head and internal injuries. He landed on a cement walk after falling from the scaffold.

Vancouver's 44th gas fatality of the year took the life of O. H. Pickersgill, 55, of Barklay Street Saturday. He was found overcome by deadly domestic gas fumes in his West-End apartment.

At Merritt Sunday, Bernice Moses, six-year-old daughter of Antoine Moses of the Shulus Indian Reserve, drowned in the Nicola River before the eyes of her sister.

Phil Harris, Alice Faye To Visit Here

Gravel-voiced Phil ("That's What I Like About the South") Harris and his wife Alice ("Alexander's Ragtime Band") Faye are to spend another holiday in the garden city.

They and their entourage will be guests at the Empress Hotel for two days, starting tomorrow.

Also on hand will be the butt of Harris' frequent humor, an orchestra member named "Remmie." As far as known the stars of TV, movies and radio will be here for a holiday only, part of the long lay-off period show biz has each summer. The couple last holidayed here Aug. 1949.

Iranian Leader
Reports Agreement
In Oil Dispute

LONDON (UP)—Officials of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company today withheld comment on reports that an agreement has been reached for the renewal of production and the marketing of oil from Iran's long-idle fields.

Dr. Ali Amini, Iranian finance minister, announced in Tehran that general agreement had been reached with representatives of the association of eight international oil companies on prices, production rates and other major factors.

A company spokesman here said that any official announcement would have to come from both sides in the negotiations.

B.C. REVOLT MAY FORCE NATIONAL TORY MEETING

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

Ottawa—The "non-confidence" vote in the leadership of George Drew which climaxed the quarterly meeting of the executive of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association may precipitate a national convention within a year, party sources said here Monday.

The headquarters of the Progressive Conservative party in Ottawa over the week-end arranged to cable details of the blow-up at the West Coast executive meeting to Mr. Drew who is in Europe on vacation. Mr. Drew had asked to be kept posted on the outcome of the B.C. meetings.

The last national Progressive Conservative meeting was held in 1948.

Tory Rebels Plot New Anti-Drew Act

Call for National Leadership Change
Due at B.C. Convention in September

By TOM GOULD

B.C.'s rebel Conservatives, fresh from a decisive victory in Vernon Saturday, today started laying plans for the next step in their battle to force a national leadership convention, and the ouster of George Drew.

Saturday's non-confidence motion in the national party leadership was the latest in a series of five years of bickering between the federal and provincial organizations.

But it is only the beginning, if the anti-Drew factions attain their goal.

Today, the B.C. Conservative Association is openly split into two camps. Three federal Tory MPs have withdrawn from the association, and with them their supporters.

Howard Green, David Fulton and Major General G. R. Pearkes, VC, have affirmed their loyalty to Drew in a wire to national party headquarters.

They said the Vernon revolt is "an unfortunate incident... stemming entirely from the personal vexation of the provincial leader, Deane Finlayson, and a small group of his advisers, over the fact that the national leader has of necessity refused to allow the responsibilities imposed on him for national organization to be usurped by the provincial leader."

The federal members said they would now work to build up the federal organization in the province, and would cut themselves loose from the provincial association.

The rebels, confident their drama-packed, non-confidence motion will prove the spark to touch off smoldering fires of dissatisfaction against Drew throughout the country, will carry their action next to a provincial convention, in September or October.

Two SUGGESTED
Their prime objective is the forcing of a national convention and the overthrow of Drew, who was named party leader in 1948.

Already the names of John Diefenbaker and Donald Fleming are being tossed about as future leaders, especially that of the youthful Diefenbaker.

Said provincial party leader Deane Finlayson, for whom the non-confidence motion was a personal victory: "I predict John Diefenbaker will replace George Drew within two years."

Drew is in southern Europe on vacation. Some observers feel he may call a leadership convention immediately on his return.

The strategy would be to place him on the offensive; to force the issue before rebels

George Hees 'Can't See' Drew Ousted

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—George Hees, president of the national Progressive Conservative Association, said Sunday the vote of non-confidence in party leader George Drew by the British Columbia Association "most certainly does not represent the opinion held by the members of the Conservative party in the other nine provinces."

"And I feel confident that this does not represent the opinion held by the great majority of Conservatives in British Columbia."

Mr. Hees said at a press conference he "can't see" Mr. Drew being replaced as the opposition leader.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada today was considering whether to serve on an international armistice commission in Indo-China.

External Affairs Minister Pearson went into a huddle with his top officials after word reached here that a telegram was on its way from Geneva asking Canadian participation on an armistice commission.

A department official said the telegram had not yet been received here but that the matter was taken under consideration immediately.

Flames Destroy Foods, Furniture

Five fire trucks and over 85 firemen battled to save a four-story Central Cartage Company storage building in the 500 block Yates Street early today.

Damages may reach $150,000. Flames destroyed stored furniture of about 40 families and three floors of warehouse groceries were flooded with tons of water.

The blaze, which started on the top floor, was held from spreading.

It was the second "blow" experienced by the trucking firm in three days. Friday, police reported nine company trucks were damaged by sledge-hammering vandals who shattered headlights and windshields and ripped wiring from motors.

Police are investigating the possibility of arson although so far fire officials have found no evidence that the blaze was set deliberately.

The roof of the ancient brick building crashed through to the fourth floor while firemen fought their way up swaying ladders with high-pressure hoses. Spray dampened hundreds of spectators who stopped to watch the fire while going to work.

The alarm was turned in at 6:43 a.m. by H. R. Barnett, owner of the Poodle Dog Cafe. "I saw the smoke and flame as I was opening the cafe door," he said. He rushed to phone firemen and the cartage company owner, James Stinson. Mr. Barnett was a former owner of Central Cartage. He sold out to Mr. Stinson 18 months ago.

Dazed by the disaster, Mr. Stinson arrived at the scene in time to open street doors for the fire fighters. Others had already smashed through rear doors and windows. The owner could give no reason for the truck smashing incident and would not say whether he thought the fire could be related to the earlier incident.

A torrent of water cascaded through the building as firemen leveled hoses from the roofs of adjoining buildings and from an aerial ladder truck.

Deputy Chief James Bayliss who led the battle said 10 lines of hose were laid from five hydrants. Three pumps, a service truck and a ladder truck were called out from stations at James Bay and Burnside as well as the central department.

All off-duty firemen were summoned. Officials praised the firemen, whose quick response was credited with saving the lower three floors from the flames.

A heavy congestion of smoke within the building hampered firemen. It was so dense it was pouring through chinks in the mortar of the west wall of the brick building.

Tenants in the upper story of neighboring E. A. Morris wholesale tobacco company building were temporarily evicted when the blaze threatened to spread.

Bottom two floors of the cartage company warehouse were stocked with high-piled groceries, mostly packaged soaps. They turned the flood of water which poured down Yates into white foam.

The storage company had renovated the building before moving in four months ago. Paper streamers still flapped lamplily in ground floor windows bearing the words, "New Home of Central Cartage Company Ltd."

A mechanical failure in the starter of an aerial fire truck in the road before the burning warehouse did not affect the fight to save the building. The ladder, which can be hand-cranked to position, was already hoisted when the starter failed. It had to be lowered by hand and spectators joined firemen in trying to start the engine later by pushing.

A company official said the cartage company was heavily insured against fire loss.

Firemen were still probing the debris at press-time and the deputy chief said men would remain on the job all day.

Peace 'In Sight';
Viet Nam Surrendered

French Sources Say France Has Agreed To Give Up Hanoi and, Later, Haiphong

GENEVA (UP)—High French sources said today France has agreed to surrender to the Reds all northern Viet Nam above the 17th Parallel—including Hanoi and eventually the port of Haiphong—in a final bid to win an Indo-China peace by Tuesday's French-imposed deadline.

By EDDY GILMORE
GENEVA (AP)—A high Western source said tonight a cease-fire agreement on the Indo-China war is almost certain to be reached before French Premier Pierre Mendes-France's deadline of Tuesday midnight.

This source, who asked not to be identified by name but who is well informed on the course of the long, difficult negotiations for peace, said the momentum of Mendes-France's drive for peace was carrying the movement along.

Mendes-France was confident himself as he met reporters briefly today when his deadline for achieving peace was little more than 24 hours away.

The French premier, who said he would resign if he could not bring peace to Indo-China by Tuesday midnight, spoke briefly to reporters as he came out of a two-hour and 17-minute meeting with U.S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith.

"How are things going?" he was asked. "All right," the premier replied in English.

The French newspaper, L'Entente, continues to appear daily. "We cannot move our plant, so we might as well have the use of it up to the last hour," the director says.

The Hotel Metropole continued to render public service. "We have food enough for three weeks, but we won't need it," says director Louis Blouet. "When the military tells me to leave, I'll walk out the door and that's that. I can't take this hotel with me. I'll return to my family in Paris, if I can get there."

Meantime, in Geneva, Premier Mendes-France has 30 hours left to bring peace to this land or resign his office as premier of France.

Drew Refuses to Make Statement

MADRID (CP)—George Drew, Canadian Progressive Conservative leader, said tonight he prefers not to comment on the vote of non-confidence in his national leadership registered Saturday by the British Columbia party association.

Drew now is in Madrid on final stages of a fact-finding tour of Europe.

New Comet Airliner Takes to Air

HATFIELD, Eng. (UP)—Britain's Comet III jet airliner, bigger and faster descendant of the accident-plagued first Comet, took to the air for the first time today.

The debut came less than a week after the first flight of the United States' first jet transport, Boeing's 707. It underscored Britain's determination to hang onto the world jet leadership it held by a wide margin until a series of fatal crashes grounded its fleet of Comet I's early this year.

Jets Scheduled for Comox Base

VANCOUVER (CP)—It is expected that a squadron of CF-100 jet fighters will be established at the Comox air base "within a month," an RCAF official reported here today.

He said work is under way at the base for the fighters which will reinforce the Pacific coast.

'Canada in Agriculture Depression'

WINNIPEG (CP)—J. L. Phelps, chairman of the Inter-provincial Farm Union Council, said here today Canada is in a period of agricultural depression.

In his opening remarks to the fourth annual conference of the IFU, Mr. Phelps said the current situation has passed the stage when it can be considered a simple recession.

2 Reported Killed in Jet Crash

MONTREAL (CP)—Two men were reported to have been killed today when a jet training plane crashed near Terrebonne, about 20 miles north of Montreal.

Police at Terrebonne said the crash occurred about one mile from the town on a farm.

RCAF officials at nearby St. Hubert said they were checking to see if any of their planes are missing.

Swedish Tennis Stars Victorious

BASTAAD, Sweden (AP)—Sweden today defeated Belgium, 3-2, to qualify for the European Zone Davis Cup tennis finals against France.

The deciding singles match was won by Sven Davidson, Sweden's top player, who beat Philippe Washer of Belgium 7-5, 5-7, 8-6, 6-2.

Earlier, Jackie Brichant of Belgium had defeated Lennart Bergelin 5-7, 6-8, 7-5, 6-2, 10-8 to tie the five-match series 2-2.

Senator's Son Takes Over Paper

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—A special meeting of the board of directors of the Lethbridge Herald Company has named Hugh P. Buchanan as president and managing director, it was announced today. He succeeds his father, the late Senator W. A. Buchanan, who died here July 11 at the age of 78.

Administrative duties will be carried out by Mr. Buchanan as the new president and editor.

Alberta Tories Deplore B.C. Action

EDMONTON (CP)—Progressive Conservative leaders in Alberta do not agree with Deane Finlayson, party leader in British Columbia, that national leader George Drew has been "interfering" in provincial organization.

Edmonton party members today generally deplored the action of the B.C. party executive Saturday in adopting a non-confidence motion in Mr. Drew's leadership.

ELECTROCUTED4 Violent Deaths
Mar B.C. Week-End

VANCOUVER—James E. Reeve, radio station engineer, died in hospital here today from injuries suffered Sunday when he was attempting to string an aerial to a power pole.

Police said a 4,000-volt shock knocked Reeve from the metal ladder he had placed against the pole at the rear of his home. He suffered electrical burns, cuts and bruises.

All in all British Columbia had four violent deaths during the week-end.

Don Archibald, 42, died in Vancouver hospital Sunday less than three hours after he toppled off a 15-foot scaffolding he had erected to give his house a spring coat of paint.

Archibald died of severe head and internal injuries. He landed on a cement wall after falling from the scaffolding.

Vancouver's 44th gas fatality of the year took the life of O. H. Pickersgill, 55, of Barklay Street, Saturday. He was found overcome by deadly domestic gas fumes in his West-End apartment.

City Blaze Fought Three Hours

in scaling front of building when flames cut off stairway. Blaze, reported at 6:43 a.m., is second incident for cartage company recently. Vandals damaged nine trucks Friday. Police are investigating possibility of arson. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

Phil Harris,
Alice Faye
To Visit Here

Gravel-voiced Phil ("That's What I Like About the South") Harris and his wife Alice ("Alexander's Ragtime Band") Faye are to spend another holiday in the garden city. They and their entourage will be guests at the Empress Hotel for two days starting tomorrow.

Also on hand will be the butt of Harris' frequent humor, an orchestra member named "Remmie." As far as is known the stars of TV, movies and radio will be here for a holiday only, part of the long lay-off period show biz has each summer. The couple last holidayed here Aug., 1949.

The 52-foot Nightingale, also American, was safely beached 80 miles south of Prince Rupert, a large hole torn in her side.

RCAF rescue teams reported the damaged craft and her crew were safe.

The heavy boat had radioed for aid after grinding part-way onto the beach.

RCAF reported that the search for the 52-foot Zepora, based in Vancouver, had been called off. The boat was due back in port at the July 12 close of the halibut season, but was not heard from. Radio check located the vessel in northern waters, and she reported she would be in Wednesday.

Dr. Giovando Quits
After Row at Vernon

Lone Tory MLA Will Sit in House As Independent; May Not Run Again

(Special to the Times)

NANAIMO—Dr. Larry Giovando today announced he has quit the Conservative Party and will sit as an independent in the Provincial Legislature.

Dr. Giovando, the only Conservative MLA in the House, took the action following Saturday's quarterly executive meeting in Vernon, when a vote of non-confidence in national leader George Drew was approved.

The Nanaimo Islands MLA said: "I am taking no part in the dispute at Vernon, and am disassociating myself with the Conservative party and will sit as an independent."

He said he "doubted" whether he would run again.

The Tory MLA said he "never liked party politics, and thought only of doing something for my constituency" when elected.

"The Conservative party can't expect much support after the display at Vernon," he said.

By TOM GOULD

B.C.'s rebel Conservatives, fresh from a decisive victory in Vernon Saturday, today started laying plans for the next step in their battle to force a national leadership convention, and the ouster of George Drew.

Saturday's non-confidence motion in the national party leader climaxed five years of bickering between the federal and provincial organizations.

But it is only the beginning, if the anti-Drew factions attain their goal.

Today, the B.C. Conservative Association is openly split into two camps. Three federal Tory MPs have withdrawn from the association, and with them their supporters.

Blaze Follows
Truck Slashing

City police are investigating the possibility of arson in the Central Cartage Storage Company warehouse fire which did an estimated $150,000 damage in the 500 block on Yates Street early today.

The fire was the second disaster to hit the firm within three days. Friday police reported that nine company trucks were damaged by sledge-hammer swinging vandals who shattered headlights and windshields and ripped wiring from motors.

There was no evidence so far that today's blaze was deliberately set, but the co-incidence has prompted a searching investigation.

Five fire trucks and 85 firemen battled three hours to save the four-story building. The blaze, which started on the top floor, was held back from spreading, but the stored furniture of about 40 families was destroyed and three floors of warehouse groceries were flooded with water.

The roof of the ancient brick building crashed through to the fourth floor while firemen fought their way up swaying ladders with high-pressure hoses. Spray dampened hundreds of spectators who stopped to watch the fire while going to work.

The alarm was turned in at 6:43 a.m. by H. R. Barnett, owner of the Poodle Dog Cafe. "I saw the smoke and flame as I was opening the cafe door," he said. He rushed to phone firemen and the cartage company owner, James Stinson. Mr. Barnett is a former owner of Central Cartage. He sold out to Mr. Stinson 18 months ago.

Owner Dazed by Disaster

Dazed by the disaster, Mr. Stinson arrived at the scene in time to open street doors for the fire fighters. Others had already smashed through rear doors and windows. The owner could give no reason for the truck smashing incident and would not say whether he thought the fire could be related to the earlier incident.
